Man Who Captured Suspect Declares Fox Admitted Shooting

(By United Press Leased Wire)
ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—Witnesses realistically staged and graphically recited the killing of W. S. Coburn, leader in a factional war in the K. K. K. in the murder trial of Phil E. Fox, publicity director of the "invisible empire", today.

Evidence taking in the trial which may involve secrets of the hooded order, began shortly after the jury in superior court was sworn.

Two women—Mrs. M. L. Heyman of Cleveland and Mrs. W. A. Holbrook—the only eye witnesses to the killing, painted a vivid word picture of Fox with the "demonish look in his eyes and a mean scowl on his face, firing five shots deliberately while the rival klansman screamed and moaned."

Threw Gun at Body.
"Then he threw his gun at Mr. Coburn as if to finish the job," Mrs. Holbrook declared. "Through all the dramatic recitation Mrs. Coburn and her pretty daughter wept openly while Fox sat nervously running his fingers through his hair."

Mrs. Heyman asked to take an object, and taking the place of Fox, acted out the shooting.

Pointing her imaginary revolver at a juror, Mrs. Heyman pretended to fire bullets.

Mrs. Heyman was the first witness to be severely cross-questioned by the defense attorneys.

The next witness was Mrs. W. A. Holbrook, Coburn's stenographer, another eye witness to the shooting.

Mrs. Holbrook corroborated Mrs. Heyman's account with graphic details. She told how she hid her face to the wall and covered her eyes during the shooting. She gave an account of Coburn's cries and told how he writhed in pain from the wounds.

Numerous Objections.
The defense interposed numerous objections on the grounds the witnesses were making an appeal to the jury with such phrases as "the demonish look in his eye" and other such descriptions.

C. C. Wallen, an insurance agent, who captured Fox, testified that after apprehending the former newspaperman and taking a knife from him he asked Fox who he had killed.

"I shot Coburn, the lawyer upstairs, Fox replied, the witness said.

"What did you intend to do with the knife?"

"I bought it this morning for my own protection."

In reply to a query why he had shot Coburn, Allen said Fox replied, "He had some information and dope on me he intended to expose and I would sooner be hung than ruined. I went to his office to get him to withdraw the charges and he refused and I shot him."

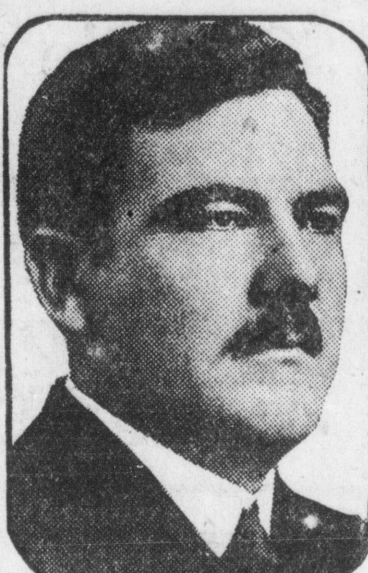

10 Persons Frozen to Death As Sudden Blizzard Hit New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 13.—A blizzard of almost unprecedented proportions swept New Mexico and the Southwest yesterday, leaving ten known dead.

Severity of the storm appeared to have entirely subsided this morning.

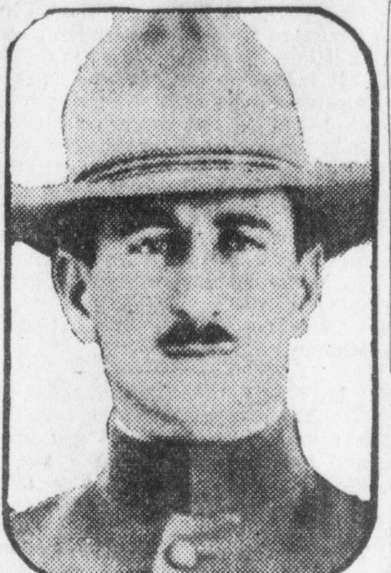

Late yesterday, word was brought in that five persons, three women and two children, had been found frozen to death on a ranch fifty miles southeast of Albuquerque. Bodies of two boys and an unidentified negro were found near Vaughn, N. M. A railroad employee, blinded by the storm, fell into a canyon at Bisbee, and a sheep man was found frozen near his camp at Vaughn.

COUNTY PLAN BODY WINS APPROVAL

Associated Chambers Give Support to Regional Projecting Move

With the adoption by the Associated Chambers of Commerce, at its meeting at Huntington Beach last night, of the report of a committee recently appointed to propose a plan for creation and operation of a county planning commission, the county organization today was squarely on record as approving the appointment of a regional planning commission.

The report was submitted by Howard E. Gates of Anaheim, other members of the committee being W. C. Spencer of Costa Mesa and L. M. Hopper of La Habra.

The report carried recommendation that the supervisors appoint three members to the commission on salary for the first year, while development of a definite program is under way, and one paid member thereafter. It also urged that each city in the county have a like commission, to work co-operatively with the county planners, "Common Sense" urged.

Pointing out that development at present is done in a helter-skelter way, and in a manner most advantageous to the individual, the committee declared that common sense should be applied in molding present development to the needs of the future.

Citing the building of the joint outfall sewer by the four principal cities of the county as evidence of what co-operative action may accomplish, the report says that abundant water and adequate power and transportation are essential to the welfare of any community.

"Water is our biggest problem," says the report. "Our present supply has made our present agricultural richness. More water will increase our agricultural importance. More water is necessary to supply the homes of the thousands who will find the end of their rainbow in Orange county. This problem is too big for any one of our cities to solve. We may have to dam the Santa Ana river or we may find it better to catch Mr. Mulholland's vision and help him bring water from the Colorado river."

Stresses Industries.
"Electricity is California's power, and in it we have many advantages over our eastern brethren who depend upon coal. This commission might provide a source of abundant power. It should not stop with the supply of power, but should arrange for its distribution so that it will not be detrimental to any one."

"It is a well known fact that industrial districts should be to the leeward of cities. Between Anaheim and Fullerton are a sugar mill and an alcohol factory which have made themselves nuisances by the odors of their waste materials."

"At present a rancher has a suit for dust damage against a rock crusher near Orange. A little planning and control now may help to preserve the physical happiness of our people throughout the years to come."

"Definite rules should be laid down for subdivisions. The size of lots, width of alleys and the provision of public necessities should be cared for. The street systems should be carefully planned to fit into the larger plan for the county. Our people should be educated not to buy lots by 'metes and bounds' as there is usually a

Yegg Escapes Trap Of Police Posse

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—With more than 50 policemen surrounding the California Cornice Works, in the downtown commercial district, a bandit, who was discovered cracking a safe in the office succeeded in escaping early today.

The yegg was seen working on the safe by two officers, who immediately called on reserves. A close guard was placed around the entire plant to capture him as he walked out. When he failed to appear after several hours, the plant was searched. The burglar apparently vanished into space.

Track Men Discover Rails Unspiked and Avert Disaster; Probe Under Way.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—An attempt to wreck the Continental Limited, a Union Pacific Overland train, at Whittier Junction, near this city, was disclosed today by deputy sheriffs who were ordered to the scene.

Two rails were unspiked and left loose on the ties, the authorities were informed by track men, who discovered the break and replaced the steel before the train arrived. The attempted wreck occurred Tuesday night, but railroad officers kept it secret until today, when they requested the aid of sheriff's officers in the search for the responsible parties.

DEMANDS PROBE OF RAILROAD IN ALASKA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Promising to force a congressional investigation if President Coolidge declines to act, John A. Ballaine, Seattle, has announced his intention of bringing railroad brotherhood leaders to Washington this month to insist on "radical change in the management and policies" of the government's railroad in Alaska.

Ballaine, in letters announcing his coming, said that "if the president declines to act we shall have a congressional investigation that will reveal the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation and we intend to follow that with action in the presidential campaign."

Ballaine said he is not out to embarrass the president.

"On the contrary," he said in his letter, "I am a republican as are the officials of the brotherhood and we will help the president if he does the square thing in this Alaskan railroad matter. But we are going to have it straightened out regardless of politics or parties."

They believed the reduced representation would stand. When at yesterday's session it was turned, they were amazed but helpless.

Their only recourse now is to go into the convention and attack the national committee on the ground that it violated the mandate of the 1920 convention. They will ask whether the convention or the committee controls the Republican party. They will demand that southern delegations restored by the Pepper

EXPECTS HUGE CROWD AT JOHNSON MEETING.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—Supporters of Senator Hiram W. Johnson's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination took the center of the stage today while the Coolidge men, who had their innings yesterday, began leaving town.

Saturday Johnson's friends from Northern California counties meet here to organize details of his campaign. Yesterday the Coolidge men of the party in this state organized the League of California Coolidge Republican clubs.

Considerable damage to plastering on the upper floor of the courthouse here with some damage extending even to ground floor, was caused today by the overflow of a large tank of water in the attic of the building.

The tank, which is one of four flushing tanks connected with the plumbing system of the building, was shut off after it had thoroughly drenched the upper corridor and even the offices. The overflow was said to have been caused by the breaking of mechanism controlling the float.

The offices of the court reporter, probation officer and treasurer were the principal sufferers. Some court records, particularly in the reporters' office were damaged by the wetting.

CONVENTION FACES HOT STRUGGLE

Friends of California Solon Bitter Over Delegation Quota Fixing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Hiram Johnson's friends, incensed at the action of the Republican National committee in restoring full southern representation in the next Republican convention, will demand that the convention itself review the committee's action.

Their present purpose is to prevent the convention from functioning until they have had a decision on the committee's right to rescind action cutting southern representation by twenty-three delegates.

The 1920 convention ordered the reduction. It was made on the recommendation of a subcommittee headed by Senator Howell, Nebraska. Then, with amazing suddenness the national committee yesterday threw out the Howell report and substituted a plan proposed by Senator Pepper, Pennsylvania, giving back to the South the delegates cut off by the Howell committee.

Coolidge in Control.
Further, the committee on contests, which deals with disputes over representation, was so constituted that anti-administration forces have little representation on it.

The national committee's action in this matter has given new evidence of the strength of Coolidge control. Taken in conjunction with the sudden switching of the 1924 national convention from Chicago to Cleveland, it shows that the Coolidge campaign managers not only know what they want but know how to get it.

Senator Johnson's friends in California not only wanted the Howell committee's program of reduced southern representation adopted—they wanted still further cuts. When the Howell report was adopted, some of Johnson's friends left town, having little further interest in the meeting.

Taken by Surprise.
They believed the reduced representation would stand. When at yesterday's session it was turned, they were amazed but helpless.

Their only recourse now is to go into the convention and attack the national committee on the ground that it violated the mandate of the 1920 convention. British Lord Sentenced In Libel Case

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Lord Alfred Douglas was found guilty today of libeling Winston Churchill and sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the second division which does not include hard labor.

The libel occurred in connection with Lord Alfred's charge that Churchill, while secretary of the navy, had falsified a communique issued after the battle of Jutland.

Counsel for the defendant referred to Churchill as a "professional politician," with "the hide of a rhinoceros, a skin like a chameleon and a short memory, and the cheek of the devil."

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 13.—President Alvaro Obregon has taken the field against the revolutionary forces of Adolfo de la Huerta.

Dispatches received here stated Obregon was conferring with his military leaders at Irapuato, planning an extensive attack on the rebel forces.

Secretary of War Serrano will leave the Mexican capital today to review troops who will leave for the Vera Cruz front.

Squadrons of federal government airplanes are making flights over the territory held by the revolutionists to map out a plan of campaign for the Obregon forces, according to the reports.

Federal troops today defeated the rebel army in a battle in Vera Cruz.

An insurgent force under General Guadalupe Sanchez, commander in chief of the Vera Cruz rebels, was engaged at Esperanza. The rebels numbered two thousand and federal forces under General Fasuto Topete, 2500 strong attacked the advancing columns of insurgents early today.

The battle raged for five or six hours.

General Sanchez' forces were beaten and driven back to Xuchil. Censorship and interrupted communications greatly delayed messages from Mexico City, one of the latest of which told of a victory for federal troops at Esperanza.

Headquarters of the De La Huerta forces at Vera Cruz were busy announcing rebel successes at Coahuilapam in Michoacan and at Monterrey.

Well equipped revolutionary forces who last night were closing in on La Pladad in Michoacan are believed to have clashed with the federal garrison, according to advices from De La Huerta headquarters at Vera Cruz.

The fate of the Mexican capital hung upon the outcome of the battle, these dispatches said.

Fighting also was reported in Coahuilapam, where rebels under General Garcia engaged federals. Spasmodic clashes between revolutionary bands and federal troops also were reported throughout the southern half of Mexico.

Bringing a tale of chaotic conditions in the interior of Mexico, E. R. Gable, president of the Stack Advertising Agency of Chicago, arrived in Laredo from Monterrey.

Tuesday night Gable declared soldiers patrolling the streets snatched the mayor and police force of Monterrey, he said, and many taking active control of the affairs of the town.

An ominous quiet prevailed in Monterrey, said said, and many Americans and other foreigners are leaving. There are practically no tourists in Monterrey, usually a thriving winter resort.

Charged with a secret mission for the Obregon government, Dr. Ramon Ross, member of the recent "Recognition Conference," passed through Laredo en route to Washington. He refused to divulge any information regarding his trip.

DEATH CLAIMS S. A. PIONEER MINISTER

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. at Zion's Evangelical church, Tenth and Main streets, for the Rev. C. Gruen, one of the early pastors of the church, who died yesterday at his residence, 419 West Washington avenue, at the age of 76 years.

With the Rev. G. A. Stierle, pastor, directing the church service, the Rev. F. Cordes, superintendent of the Pacific Evangelical home for the aged at Burbank, will preach the funeral sermon. The Rev. Mr. Cordes also was a former pastor of the local church.

Decedent is survived by his widow, daughter, Mrs. Clara O'Meara, San Juan Capistrano, and two sons, Louis C. and Harry J. of Los Angeles.

The Rev. Mr. Gruen had been a resident of Santa Ana most of the time since he first came here forty years ago. Coming here as one of the first pastors of the church, his ministrations were interrupted by a rule of his church limiting a pastor to three years at one point. He served three or four pastoral terms here.

At one time he was presiding elder for this district. He retired from the active ministry some years ago, living in Los Angeles for a time, and later coming to Santa Ana.

Born at Stratford, Canada, December 8, 1847, decedent came to the United States when he was young and to Santa Ana in 1883.
He was married at Fountain City,
Wis., September 2, 1875, to Barbara Weimers. Six children were born to the union, three of whom are living.

Admitted Speeder Fined But Escapes Jail Term

W. C. Culpepper, Texan, who became entangled with Orange county traffic authorities while driving along the Los Alamitos boulevard
a few weeks ago, pleaded guilty here today to a charge of speeding and was fined $100 by Justice J.
B. Cox.

Motocycle Officer Louis Her-fner appeared against Culpepper.
Originally a felony charge, accusing Culpepper of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was filed, but this eventually was discarded in favor of the speeding charge.

It was believed today that Culpepper escaped the jail sentence rule that Justice Cox adopted for speeders yesterday because his case developed before the time that traffic officers were laid off by the state, during which period, Justice
Cox declares, the reckless drivers took advantage of the situation, with the result that many fatal accidents have occurred.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO SHRINE CEREMONIAL

Desirous of having more than the ceremonial in Los Angeles Saturday evening, December 15, D. By-man Huff, president of the Orange County Shrine club today called attention to the schedule of special

Electric.

"Saturday, December 15," said Huff, "the Pacific Electric will be able to take care of more than 100
Orange Shriners who are expected to attend the ceremonial at the Ambassador hotel. Special P. E.

Santa Ana, at 5:30 p. m. Shriners

Teeth Stains Removed —for Few Cents!

No More Yellow Teeth—New Discovery Whitens
Teeth Instantly

A new harmless treatment has been discovered which—in just three minutes—gives dull, yellowish teeth a beautiful pearly whiteness. This new treatment, called Bleachodent Combination, consists of a marvelous liquid and a new kind of paste. The liquid cures or softens the stains, while the paste gently removes them, and prevents the formation of new stains.
Tobacco stains completely disappear
after a few applications.

Bleachodent Combination is a new scientific product, perfected by dental specialists who knew that there must be a better, safer and less expensive way to clean teeth than the old way of having abrasives. Bleachodent Combination is especially recommended for children's teeth, as their teeth are in a soft formative period during which gritty pastes or powders should be avoided, and only an absolutely safe, mild cleanser like Bleachodent Combination, which bleaches out stains but has absolutely no effect on the enamel, should be used. Bleachodent Combination cannot possibly affect enamel as it acts only on the teeth and forms a hard coating of teeth.

Get Bleachodent Combination to-

MONKEYS AMUCK IN HOME SECTION AGAIN

"This monkey business has to stop," said City Marshal Claude
Rogers today when several reports were turned in to police headquarters regarding the activities of two monkeys at large.

The two monkeys that were captured recently after making life miserable for the police department and for citizens of Santa Ana are loose again, Rogers explained.

Rogers said that the two monkeys were reported at large several days ago and that police had made an effort to capture them, but in vain. The monkeys elude their pursues, flee to the top of a tree and give the would-be captors the "monkey laugh," it is understood.

Willing to Give Wife Decree, But Can't Be Bothered; Judge Balks

E. Roger Sherman had no objection to his wife getting a divorce, so long as he wasn't bottered in the proceedings, but when he told that to Superior Judge Z.
B. West, the wife, Irene Sherman, was denied her decree, it was revealed today.

Sherman on the witness stand, declared that he told his wife she could get her divorce if she didn't bother him doing so, but after she had cited him into court on an alimony hearing, he became angered, he said, and decided to contest the case.

"I've never granted a divorce on that kind of evidence and I'll not grant this one," Judge West declared.

{Serenade (Toselli) Violin Solo Erika Morini

Tchaikovsky's barcarolle, June, is one of his most familiar —and most charming—shorter compositions. Here it is for

{Entr'acte—Gavotte (Gille) Victor String Orchestra 19143 .75

{In the Mill (Au Moulin) (Gille) Victor String Orchestra

Dainty numbers for the bowed strings, "the soul of the orchestra." The gavotte trips delicately as a toe-dancer. The moss-grown old water-wheel, clop-clop-clops, now fast, now slow. All is told in light, vivid, exquisitely-played string music.

Well Known Hospital Physician Says These Are Some of the Danger Signals of Exhausted Nerve Force—What To Do

One of the most terrible of all human ailments is exhausted nerve force. It weakens all the vital organs of the body and as a result all kinds of alarming symptoms may appear. Some people get nervous indigestion, pains over the eyes, in the heart, and across the small of the back; in others the first symptoms are mental instead of physical—sleeplessness, worry over trifles, or inability to concentrate on your work.
The nervous mother is upset by her children, squabbles with her husband, has frequent fits of the "blues" and bursts into tears over the smallest troubles. In such cases it is worse than useless to waste time taking stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs; the starving nerve cells must have nerve food which is supplied by the blood. Any physician will tell you that if the blood supply were cut off from any nerve in your body that the nerve would die.

News Briefs

Santa Ana residents who attend services at the First Methodist church Sunday evening will hear a musical treat, according to the Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor, in announcing that Hugo Kirchofer of Los Angeles will direct singing at the meeting. The evening service will be devoted entirely to singing. Kirchofer is now directing the training in Los Angeles of a chorus of 800 voices, it was said.

Presentation of the Southern California Edison company's film "The Romance of Power," will feature the program to be given at the meeting of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist church next Tuesday evening. It was announced today by the Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor of the church. Pointing out that the film will be shown in the auditorium following the dinner of the brotherhood, the Rev. Mr. Betts said that the general public will be welcome.

The board of supervisors here has applied to the railroad commission for authority to relocate a grade crossing over the tracks of the Southern Pacific railroad at the junction of Victoria street, Santa Ana Road and Newport avenue at Costa Mesa.

The Southern Counties Gas company has applied to the railroad commission for permission to issue and sell additional first mortgage bonds in the sum of $580,000, it was learned here today.

3 GIRLS, MAN MISS HURTS IN ACCIDENT

Harry D. Stanley of 317 South Olive street, Los Angeles, and three women companions, Miss Celia Goodwin, 21, Miss Virginia Norton, 23, and Miss Patricia Crocker, 20, all of Los Angeles, narrowly escaped serious injury when Stanley's large touring car turned turtle at the corner of First street and Newport Road, Tustin, at 5 a. m. today.

The car was said to have tried to make the turn at a high rate of speed when the driver, one of the young women, lost control and the car skidded turning completely over once before righting itself again.

The occupants of the car, thrown free of the wreckage, all escaped with minor scratches and bruises, according to the attending physician.

Stanley is thought to be a geologist. Sacks of rocks and various soils and dirt were found in the car, which it is thought he procured in the region close to Lemon Heights.

They were taken to the Community hospital by occupants of a nearby house.

Mule on Track Halts Car Bearing Democrats But Motive Is Puzzle

Friends and political acquaintances of County Assessor James Sleeper and Supervisor S. H. Finley were questioning them today regarding the portent of an incident that occurred last night when the two prominent orange county Democrats were returning from a dinner given in honor of William G. McDoo in Los Angeles.

According to reports reaching here, the Pacific Electric car on which Sleeper and Finley were riding was forced to halt near Bellflower when a large and indifferent mule blocked the track.

Passengers on the car maintained that the animal was a democratic mule because of the manner in which it claimed equal right-of-way with the trolley. Some believed, they said, that it came down to the

TEST MOISTURE IN GROVES ON FIELD DAYS

The first of a series of walnut growers field days was held today under the auspices of the Orange county farm bureau in an attempt to ascertain moisture content of the soil at this time. The morning session of the field day was held at the ranch of S. W. Stanley, near Tustin. The afternoon session was on the ranch of W. L. Hale, Fullerton.

H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, in charge of the tests, said information to ascertain moisture content of the soil at this time, the morning session of the field day was held at the ranch of S. W. Stanley, near Tustin. The afternoon session was on the ranch of W. L. Hale, Fullerton.

He said that winter irrigation tends to create a better set of fruit for the following season. One of the principal reasons for a decrease in the volume and quality of the product has been found due, in many cases, to a lack of irrigation during the winter months, he added.

These meetings are held, Wahlberg said, to bring information regarding soil conditions to the ranchers, and an invitation is extended to all growers to attend these field days. A field-day session will be held tomorrow morning, starting at 10 o'clock, on the ranch of Fred Schleuter, corner of Layeta and Flower streets, West Orange.

TUSTIN MAY GET GROWERS' INSTITUTE IN AUGUST

Attempts to secure the January walnut growers' institute for Tustin failed and the meeting will be held in China, January 9, it was stated today by H. E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor, who was a member of the committee which met yesterday with the regional farm bureau walnut growers' committee in Los Angeles. Wahlberg said that it was tentatively decided to hold the August session of the institute in Tustin.

A program of work for the institute was outlined and a program committee to carry out the plans of the institute was named. Arthur McFadden of Irvine was elected chairman. Other members of the committee are F. A. Adams, Chino, and W. Rosecrans of Los Angeles.

It was decided to appoint a committee, later, to investigate the relation of child labor to the school laws during the harvesting of the walnut crop. A report on this investigation will be made at the institute.

LOCAL MILLING FIRM TO DOUBLE CAPITAL

Reorganization of the Nicholls-Loomis company under the name of the Nicholls Grain and Milling company and increase of the capitalization from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 was announced here today by W. H. Hall, local manager of the company.

"Looking over his many mills and warehouses, including the branch in Santa Ana," Hall said, "and checking up his mammoth buying and selling organization, Albert E. Nicholls, president, found that while he had built an institution capable of meeting the tremendous demand, he lacked sufficient capital to handle more business, hence the decision to increase capitalization."

"In building up the tremendous sales volume of $2,500,000 a year he had stretched his original capital as far as it would go. There was no limit to his market or to his production capacity—the only limitation was the amount of money available to swing his many business transactions."

Pointing out that Nicholls will continue to manage the business, Hall said that, under the reorganization, the company acquires a directorate composed of some of the best business brains available.

CITIES MOVE FOR JOINT ACTIONRE-SURVEY OF HARBOR IN 90 DAYS, SEEN

"nigger in the wood pile."

"The regional planning commission of Los Angeles has laid down the following street width rules: Section lines 100 feet, half section lines 90 feet and intermediate streets 60 to 80 feet.

"Buildings everywhere should conform to definite standards. The Orange County Builders' exchange is now working upon a uniform code for the cities. This should be made to apply to the rural districts as well. Finally there should be no place for tenements in their civil sense, in the greater metropolis of Orange county. Yet you would be amazed to see the group of buildings now used for dwellings that one of us inspected a few weeks ago.

"County owned parks on the order of our present county park, would be found advantageous. The problem of a place to hold the county fair is still to be solved. Subdividers of large tracts should be induced to set aside areas for park purposes."

EXPECT RE-SURVEY OF PORT WITHIN THREE MONTHS.

Resurveying of Newport harbor, under direction of the government, may be made within the next ninety days, but it may be six or eight months before results of the survey are made known, according to Lew H. Wallace of Newport Beach, who reported the recent success of the county harbor delegation to Washington, in an address to the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Huntington Beach last night.

At the same time Wallace read extracts from a letter written him by Congressman Phil Swing, in which the latter recommended that the proposed county election to vote on an issue of $1,000,000 bonds for further improvement of the harbor be deferred until after the survey.

Definite plans and recommendation of the army engineers as to the best method of improving the project, then were expected to be forthcoming. Swing predicted that the project ultimately would secure assistance from the federal government. Wallace pointed out that the general appropriations bill carried provision for the survey and stressed the point that the order did not necessarily mean an appropriation for harbor improvement.

Resolutions commending water transportation, as proposed by the California-New York Steamship company, sponsored by fruit growers, were rejected, following their presentation by J. A. Armitage, as chairman of a committee appointed to investigate the proposal.

The resolution carried no recommendation that stock in the organization be purchased by fruit growers. It was the fear that salesmen might make it appear that the chambers had recommended purchase of stock, that caused rejection of the resolutions, it was indicated.

The address of welcome was by Armitage, secretary of the Huntington Beach chamber, and the response was by J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Santa Ana chamber.

The meeting was held at Obarr's hall, with a dinner preceding the business session. During the serving of dinner, the Sunshine orchestra of Huntington Beach entertained with orchestral selections and chorus singing.

Navigation Lights
Prove Gov't
Interest in Harbor

Indicating further recognition of Newport Harbor, the government has placed navigation warning lights on both ends of the jetty and on Rocky Point (Balboa Palisades), according to an announcement by Lew H. Wallace, at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Huntington Beach last night.

Location of the beacon lights, Wallace said was just another instance demonstrating that the government is beginning to recognize the harbor as one of possibilities.

MUSIC CONTEST

Last week at a meeting of the Orange County Music Teachers this program was made out.

The boys' Glee Club numbers are "Song of the Jolly Roger" by Chudleigh-Candish and "In Absence" by Dudley Buck. The girls' Glee Club will sing "Reveries" by Oley Speaks and "Bridal Chorus" from "Rose Maiden" by Cowen.

The students who compete in the piano contest will play "Scherzo in E minor" by Mendelssohn and "Romance" by Sibelius. The violin numbers are: "Serenade" by Pierre and "Liebeslied" by Kreisler.

Last are the vocal solos. The boys selections are "Yesterday and Today" by Spross and "Duna" by McGill. The girls' solo numbers are "In My Garden" by Liddle and "The Star" by Rogers.

ORANGE GIRLS THANKED FOR THANKSGIVING GOODIES
ORANGE, Dec. 13.—The Girls' League of the Orange Union High school held their regular meeting yesterday, December 12.

At Thanksgiving time the Girls League sent a box of candies and nuts to the Soldiers' Hospital at Camp Kearney. During the meeting yesterday, Dora Mulvan, chairman of the Welfare Committee, read a letter of thanks from Commander M. L. Fitzpatrick, of the hospital.

It was voted during the meeting that stock in the organization be purchased by fruit growers. It was the fear that salesmen might make it appear that the chambers had recommended purchase of stock, that caused rejection of the resolutions, it was indicated.

The address of welcome was by Armitage, secretary of the Huntington Beach chamber, and the response was by J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Santa Ana chamber.

The meeting was held at Obarr's hall, with a dinner preceding the business session. During the serving of dinner, the Sunshine orchestra of Huntington Beach entertained with orchestral selections and chorus singing.

APPROVE JOINT ADVERTISING OF COUNTY

Pointing to the organizations of orange and walnut growers, V. D. Johnson, secretary of the Orange chamber of commerce, at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Huntington Beach last night, declared that these growers, as groups, "had more sense than cities."

He made the statement in urging unification of various communities in the county in their efforts to advertise Orange county, to the end that duplication of effort may be eliminated and money saved.

His suggestion that a committee on advertising be appointed to co-operate with Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, county purchasing agent, in developing county advertising literature, was approved, and the six rapid chamber of commerce secretaries were appointed to the committee. They are J. C. Metzgar, Santa Ana; V. D. Johnson, Orange; George Reed, Anaheim; George Raymer, Fullerton; J. A. Armitage, Huntington Beach, and Harry Welch, Newport Beach.

Pointing out that a study of the various communities of the county will reveal that there is little difference in any of them in the matter of advantages to offer the newcomer, the new merchant or an industrial, he said that co-operative advertising of the county would apply to each community.

"Why not have an advertising committee with Dr. Slabaugh at its head?" asked Johnson. "This would serve a second purpose. The $18,000 advertising fund of the county is legitimate prey for every separate idea that any Orange county man or organization can think of for spending money."

"We all want to dip our hands into the advertising fund. The result is that each supervisor is embarrassed by calls from his district, and Dr. Slabaugh is equally embarrassed by the multiplicity of these calls, many of which have no advertising value. A committee of trained secretaries with Dr. Slabaugh could handle this situation."

H. A. Lake, of Garden Grove, pointing out that his community is raising a sum of money for advertising, concurred with Johnson.

Miss Durgan, from the Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, gave a talk about the work they are doing up there, and of their great need for nurses to treat the children after they have undergone operations. The girls all enjoyed her discussion and hope they may hear her again.

The closing number of the program was a piano solo by Edith Stoner. She played "Melody in F" by Rubinstein.

All-Year Club May Ask $5000 Here to Advertise So. Calif

All of Southern California, not any particular section of it, is being advertised by the All-Year club, C. C. Milham, its secretary, told those at the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting at Huntington Beach last night.

Pointing to the numbers of harbors on the Atlantic coast, and the possible development on the Pacific coast of big industrials to supply the Orient, he said that Orange county harbor would be an absolute necessity to the Pacific coast.

He said his organization since 1921 had spent half a million dollars in inviting the world to Southern California. Success had crowned the effort, he said, pointing to the big increase in the number of summer visitors to the coast.

He said that it is proposed to ask the Orange county supervisors for an appropriation of $5000 in 1924.

De Molay Boys Plan Christmas Dance For Friends

De Molay members of Fullerton and Orange have accepted with enthusiasm the invitation of the local chapter to join in a Christmas dancing party at the Masonic temple, Saturday night, December 15 at 9 o'clock following the chapter session.

Preceding the gaiety of the social evening, the master councilor, Robert Wilson and his degree staff will confer the second degree on seven candidates. The team administering the second degree is composed of Paul Brown, Valmer Clark, Roy De Mars, Dan Cook, Reginald McDonald, Lloyd Redmond and George Walker.

All will then repair to the ballroom to greet Master Masons and their wives and a few invited friends, there to conclude the evening with dancing to music furnished by the De Molay's own orchestra.

Tickets are on sale at the high school and may be obtained at the door Saturday night.

Music Recital

Music lovers and those interested in the progress of students in music are anticipating a pleasant event tomorrow night when Ollima Enlow Matthews and Miss Carolyn Haughton are presenting a joint violin and piano recital of talented pupils at the music room of the Chandler Music House.

Beginning at 8 o'clock, the program will present many interesting features including a Handel sonata for violin and piano and a group of two-piano numbers. The two talented and capable teachers have issued a cordial invitation to anyone who might be interested, to come and enjoy the program.

JOHN MUIR
At John Muir school last Tuesday night, a new angle was given to the usual P.T.A. meeting when the presidents' gavel was given in to the temporary keeping of J. L. McBride who, with other father-members of the association, presided very capably over the session.

Among the interesting program events was the exemplification of school work by the fifth grade pupils who presented a baseball game in arithmetic and almost put their elders to shame for the ease and speed with which they worked difficult problems.

Miss Stella Anderson pleased interesting child impersonations, "Aunt Goin' to Cry No More" and "When Pa Begins to Shave" after which Mrs. E. W. McGaffey talked on the Child Welfare magazine and read the Christmas message of the state P.T.A. president, Mrs. Reeves.

Miss Stella Anderson pleased with two whistling solos and J. A. Cranston made a few remarks in the course of which he presented the basket of flowers to the fifth grade since they had the greatest number of parents present.

The fifth grade mothers were hostesses of the evening, and during the social hour served hot male pie to the members and guests gathered for the interesting evening.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors Bride-elect At Garden Grove

A recently announced engagement in Garden Grove circles which is of keen interest to many Santa Ana friends, is that of Mrs. Pearl Haskins, in charge of the county library at Garden Grove, and Earl Briggs, connected with one of the Long Beach papers.

Honoring that betrothal and the wedding which is anticipated as one of the mid-holiday events, Mrs. Leavitt Ford, herself a bride of but a few months and formerly Miss Olive Northcross, was hostess at a charmingly planned miscellaneous shower last night at her Acacia street home in the nearby city.

Assisted by her sister, Miss Mabel Northcross, the hostess received her guests in a home rendered doubly attractive by garlands of the Christmas colors and great baskets of poinsettias and other vivid blooms.

A clever needlework contest in which each entrant outlined in red thread on a white square, such fanciful designs as "cupid," "the proposal" and "the ideal lover," won prizes for the honor guest, Mrs. Haskins, and for Miss Cecil Umphress, Mrs. Ed Schweitzer and Miss Elsie Clark.

At the proper place in the evening's merriment, tiny Corinne Cornett, adorable two-year-old daughter of the C. C. Cornetts, entered arrayed as Dan Cupid himself, wings, bow and arrows and all, and drawing a red-covered wagon with gilded wheels. This was laden with gifts of linen, china and all the things a bride most loves.

In the dining room gay with red hearts, at a table arranged with special cloth in suitable decorations and centered with a basket of poinsettias, the guests were served punch, ice cream and French pastries, adorned with red hearts. Radio music aided in the pleasure of the evening.

Enjoying the entertainment offered by Mrs. Ford and her sister, Miss Northcross, were the honor guest, Mrs. Haskins and her mother, Mrs. A. J. Schweitzer, and Mesdames J. V. Kelsey, E. R. Stillins, Ed Schwere, Frank McConnell, Jack Hale, B. A. Wiener, C. C. Nett, Annabel Zeigler, the Misses Mabel Woodworth, Mabel Head, Isabel Northcross, Elsie Clark, Cecil Umphress, Irene Natland, Clara Lott and Ruth Lott.

Men's Club

Forty interested members of the Baptist Men's club meeting at the church Tuesday night, enjoyed an excellent dinner followed by a most interesting program.

This opened with violin numbers by William Taylor with Mrs. Taylor at the piano after which the speaker of the evening, Dr. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school and dean of the Junior college was introduced by Mac O. Robbins.

Taking "Citizenship" as the point of departure for his remarks, the speaker gave one of the most polished and interesting addresses ever heard by the club. He quoted Abraham Lincoln in saying "I hope the time may come in this country when every boy and girl can have an unfettered start and a fair chance in life."

That inequalities in opportunity try men's souls and that the country can not spend too much for education and religion because both are worth more than that which can never cost, that trade schools should be established for those not adapted to the strictly cultural and learned pursuits and that labor should be dignified and the trades raised to the level of the professions were among the thoughts brought out by Mr. Hammond.

Education, he defined as a preparation for complete living under six aspects; worthy home membership, health and physical well-being, harmless enjoyment of leisure time, cultivation of religious and ethical ideals, participation in civic and social affairs and finally, the labor connected with making an honest living.

The well-received address was followed by a round-table discussion led by the president, E. C. Rundstrom in which many questions were asked and a spirit of good-fellowship prevailed.

Chapter A B—P. E. O.

Members of Chapter A. B. of the P. E. O. club will enjoy a Christmas party Monday, December 17 when they will be much entertained by the E. G. Summers home, 624 South Broadway with Mrs. Summers, Mrs. George Bradley and Miss Mary Wakeham as co-hostesses.

Luncheon at 1 o'clock will be followed by a merry afternoon around the Christmas tree where a gift exchange will add its friendly touch.

Spirit of Yule-tide Prevails at Smart Bridge Luncheon

A warmth of cordiality and a blaze of Christmas cheer distinguished the bridge luncheon with which Mrs. J. P. Baumgartner added to the brilliancy of the social season yesterday at the spacious Baumgartner home on North Main street.

Christmas greens wreathed the chandeliers, poinsettias and carnations adorned mantel and piano, and each of the dozen or more daintily arrayed small tables bore a festive little tinsel-decked and candle tree whose base was a wall of red mints.

Again the Yule-tide was suggested in the menu which centered around roasted turkey and ended with a hot Christmas pudding.

Mrs. Baumgartner was assisted in receiving her guests, by her sister, Mrs. Ella Palmer while other pleasant hostess duties were delegated to Mrs. Harry Duckett, Mrs. Ben Warner, Mrs. Samuel A. Marsden, Miss Elizabeth Paine and Mrs. Lydia Roberts, Mrs. Baumgartner's niece who arrived from Riverside yesterday morning to participate in the pleasant affair.

Score cards distributed at the close of the luncheon hour, served to mingle the guests again, as they searched for their new partners. The tallies, like the place cards, were eloquent of the approaching holiday.

At the close of the fifth game of the series, the prize for high score was awarded Mrs. J. W. Bishop who proudly displayed a pair of linen pillow slips embroidered with the "blue bird of happiness." Mrs. Bishop was not alone in her good fortune however, for the holder of high score at each table was rewarded with a fascinating box of Christmas sweets, in which every delectable piece was home-made by Mrs. Baumgartner's sister, Mrs. Nellie Doak of Riverside who, while not able to be present, was thus sweetly in evidence. In addition, each box bore a daintily hand-painted Christmas card with lettered greeting, the work of Mrs. Roberts whose artistic ability is well-known among her friends and whose paintings have carried away prizes wherever exhibited.

Dividing her social activities between her North Main street home and the beautiful new beach home recently completed at Laguna Beach, Mrs. Baumgartner is adding much to the gaiety of the season.

Soul-Stirring Sight When Veterans Are Dinner Guests

It was a soul-stirring sight yesterday when Veterans of the Civil War and their wives marched into the dining-room of the G. A. R. hall, there to be shown their places at beautifully decorated tables for the enjoyment of a Christmas dinner.

Guests of loyal Sons and Daughters of Veterans, the remnants of the beloved "old guard" were extended every honor and served with the best that the season affords. Out in the roomy and convenient kitchen a corps of capable cooks under the leadership of Mrs. Margaret Church, prepared the dinner of creamed chicken with fluffy hot biscuits, scalloped corn, mashed potatoes, pickled beets and other relishes, fruit salad, pumpkin pie, whipped cream and coffee.

The delicious fare was served by an attentive dining-room committee headed by Mrs. H. M. Smith and composed of Mesdames Helen Lurker, Iva Bell, Maude Sutton and Ora Joseph. Mrs. Church was assisted in the kitchen by Mesdames Marian Davis, Louane Leech, Lillian Conn, Marie Thurston and Bertha Mott.

Poinsettias adorned the tables, and each vivid Christmas napkin concealed a red favor which contained a gay cap or apron or similar trifle. These, donned by the honor guests, added to the merriment of the occasion.

In the afternoon an hour of social chat and music was followed by a business meeting of the G. A. R., at which officers for the new year were elected.

In addition to the veterans, both from Santa Ana and Orange and their wives and widows there were a number of Sons and Daughters of Veterans present, who swelled the list from the 115 honored guests to nearly 150 persons to enjoy the dinner.

Missionary Society

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL
On Wednesday the Woman's Union and Missionary department of the First Congregational church met in the church parlors where the business of the union was conducted in the morning with Mrs. Mary Hobart presiding.

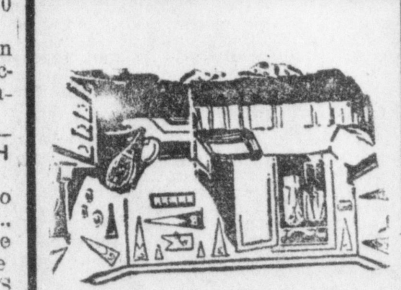

After reports and elections of officers the ladies enjoyed a pot-luck luncheon in the dining room served by the hostesses, Mesdames Edithson, Gibb, Corton and Hayes. At two o'clock, the Missionary department was called to order, the president, Mrs. C. F. Crose leading the devotions, the spirit of Christmas in its true sense being emphasized.

Mrs. W. G. Knox had prepared a short musical program, the ladies being favored first by two beautiful solos, "Leave It With Him" and "The Blind Ploughman" sung by F. C. Rowland, followed by two cornet solos by Norman Hicks and two piano solos by Russell Rowland. Mrs. Hicks gave a short talk on the help the women might give in the "Every Member Canvass."

After the program a short business session was held and the annual election took place resulting in Mrs. C. F. Crose being named president; Mrs. N. A. Beals, vice president; Mrs. F. B. Royce, recording secretary; Mrs. J. S. Talcott, treasurer and Mrs. Hunter, corresponding secretary.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN
The Woman's Missionary society and that of the Ladies' Aid, of the First Presbyterian church held a joint all-day meeting at the church yesterday. On account of the near approach of the holiday season, the dominant note of the devotionals and song service was the Christmas spirit.

Mrs. E. P. Stafford was in charge of the devotionals in the forenoon, and spoke of the first Christmas, reading the prophecies concerning the Christ-child from the eleventh chapter of Isaiah. The remainder of the forenoon was devoted to a business meeting of the Aid society, presided over by the president, Mrs. G. B. Darnell. At the noon hour a delicious luncheon was served by the ladies of the

Mr. and Mrs. Briggs Entertain Dozen Dinner Guests

As Santa Claus gayly drove his reindeer down the snowy expanse of the dinner table at the George S. Briggs home Tuesday night, he seemed utterly oblivious of the dozen guests seated around the board to enjoy a pleasantly informal little holiday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Briggs.

The attractive center-piece was complemented with place cards also in keeping with the holiday season and a delicious dinner menu was served.

The evening was devoted to cards, bridge being the chosen game.

Delta-Alpha Class

The Delta Alpha class of the First Methodist Sunday school was very delightfully entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Beulah Stone, 712 Mortimer street.

At a business meeting presided over by Miss Stone, the president, plans were discussed for Christmas giving.

A social time was spent making candy bags for Christmas, and a very interesting game was played. The hostess served light refreshments.

Those present were the Misses Davison, Olive and Bertha Briney, Lettie Stowe, Clara Barnes, Charlotte Carhart, Lilley and Lena Confer, Mattie Smith, Esther Hendrickson, Gertrude Richardson, Beulah Stone, Minnie Wild, Elizabeth and Laura Sherman, Minnie Daudendick, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Tyner and Mrs. Stone.

Southwest section.
A delightful social hour followed, and at two o'clock a song service was held, led by Mrs. Charles Johnson.

Mrs. H. A. Allen, president of the Missionary society presided over a short business meeting, during which Mrs. W. E. Roberts and Miss Preble Drake gave enthusiastic reports from the late Presbyterial.

Mrs. Ida V. Blee led in the devotionals, reading the Christmas story as related in the second chapter of Luke. Mrs. Charles Johnson greatly pleased her hearers with a beautiful solo, Mrs. G. N. Greer acting as accompanist.

Mrs. E. B. Smith was chairman of the program, the subject for the home field being "The Mormons," and for the foreign topic, "Persia." Mrs. Emma Bishop gave a paper on Persia, and Mrs. G. A. Rowell spoke of the conditions of the Presbyterian missions and their schools in that far-away country.

Mrs. W. E. Roberts read interesting items from letters from her brother, Rev. Roger C. Cumberland, a missionary in Persia.

Mrs. R. J. Blee closed the program of the day, by giving items about the home subject, "The Mormons."

SUCCESS MEETS MOVE TO TEST GAME CODE

The test case of County Treasurer J. C. Joplin, who is fighting for the right to hunt game, in season, on his own property, which is within a state game refuge, was on its way "up" today, Joplin having been found guilty of violating the game law and ordered by Justice J. B. Cox to pay a fine of $25.

After judgment was pronounced in the case late yesterday, apparently in accordance with the wishes of Joplin and his attorneys, who have openly announced their hope that the case may go to the supreme court for a final ruling on the law's constitutionality, a notice of appeal to the superior court here was filed.

The trial yesterday, in view of the defense's attitude, was little more than a formality. A stipulation of the facts having been read and filed, the attorneys briefly stated the issues and submitted the case without argument.

In respect to Joplin's contention that the state has no right to include private lands within a game refuge without consent of the owner, Chief Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley declared, in effect, that the state game laws deal with citizens as individuals and not as property owners. This was in line with the state's contention that there are no property rights in game, which belongs to the whole people in their sovereign right.

Joplin's desire to be found guilty, in order that the case might be carried up on appeal was shown when the court pronounced judgment.

"I'm going to find you guilty," said the court. "I thank you, judge," remarked Joplin, with elaborate heartiness. Attorneys L. A. West and H. C. Head represented Joplin at the trial.

Americans Near Death In Desert Auto Crash

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Professor Albert T. Clay and a party of American archaeologists escaped serious injury in an automobile accident while crossing the desert from Baghdad to Palmyra, 120 miles northeast of Damascus, says a Baghdad dispatch. Three cars got out of control in descending a hill and crashed into others.

Hostelry Here Needs High Chairs So Tots May Enjoy Drumsticks

Not enough high chairs at St. Ann's Inn! That is the distressing situation at that favorite hostelry today as the Yuletide draws near.

Already Manager Schweiger is composing a letter to Santa Claus asking that jolly and generous saint to fill his stockings with high chairs so that the small folk who come to enjoy their Christmas "drumsticks" with their parents on the great feast day may have comfortable seats awaiting them.

"We are having so many reservations for family parties for both noon and 6 o'clock dinners, and so many little children are coming, that we find we are going to have to order many new high chairs," declared Schweiger.

Drivers in Crash Fatal To Woman Are Absolved

Drivers of an automobile and a truck that figured in a collision near Tustin last Friday night, resulting in fatal injuries to Mrs. Maude Russell of Long Beach, were held blameless by a coroner's jury, it was shown today, the accident being declared to have been unavoidable.

One of the drivers was Mrs. Mabel Oliver of San Francisco, sister of Mrs. Russell, who was riding in Mrs. Oliver's car when it struck a truck driven by A. M. Lauer of Los Angeles. Lauer, for the second time in the past few days, was cleared of responsibility by a local coroner's jury. Recently he figured in a collision near Irvine, in which Peter Wear, wealthy deaf-mute, was fatally injured.

8 Defendants Named In Suits Over Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Glasgow, represented by Attorney J. A. Gardner, were plaintiffs today in a superior court action here filed against a group of defendants, including Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hagen, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Downey, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Doolittle and Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Wood.

Judgment for $1,351.37 was asked against Mr. and Mrs. Downey, and judgment for $1,071.35 was sought against Mr. and Mrs. Doolittle on account of alleged notes executed by them. The other defendants were said to have interests in the notes.

TELLS DYSPPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bismarated Magnesia at their meals. There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bismarated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthily without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestants.

Get a few ounces of Bismarated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the Bismarated form is not a laxative. Pupils Send Speakers to
Meetings of Lunch
Clubs In S. A.

Are residents of Santa Ana advised as to the service rendered the community and do they support the educational institution as they should—support it with moral influence and, kindly commendation?

According to declarations by a group of three junior college students who recently have addressed luncheon clubs here, residents of the city have not been according to the college the attention it merits.

In introducing the speakers as they have appeared at different club meetings, Raymond Vanduff, director of the program, has declared "that we cannot believe that you business men are willfully indifferent or uninterested in the Junior College. We know that your present attitude must be due to the fact that you are unacquainted with the college and that you have no means of communication that would give you the information necessary to create a loyal and friendly spirit toward the college."

For the purpose of presenting the facts given by the students and to aid in their publicity campaign, the Register today reproduces, as follows, statements made by each of the speakers:

ADVANTAGES OF JUNIOR COLLEGE TO THE INDIVIDUAL

By Overton Shur, Student Body President.
"The advantages of junior college to the individual are so numerous that I can not cover all of them in the few minutes I have to speak. There are, however, a few outstanding advantages and these fall into three main classes.

"The first class, is the advantages of a small college. Although we have about 230 students at Junior College, which is seventy-five more than we have ever had before, still, it is a small college. The advantages of a small college, especially during the first two

Fame of Auto Camp Spreads East

That the fame of the Chamber of Commerce auto camp on North Main street has spread to Michigan, was revealed here today to J. C. Metzgar secretary, by receipt of a letter from H. E. Galvin, secretary of the chamber at Muskegon, Mich., asking for details as to operation and management.

"We find your city very prominently mentioned as one maintaining a good tourist camp," writes the secretary. "Your city is fortunate in having a well equipped and well managed tourist camp. Here in Muskegon we are very much interested in this question, as the camp here has been maintained in a rather haphazard manner. The chamber probably will take it over and we would appreciate any information you may give us."

Harbor Booster to Enter Real Estate Field At Newport

Lew H. Wallace, banker of Newport Beach and well known harbor booster, today announced that he has fitted up an office suite at Newport Beach and will become more active as real estate operator.

Admitting that the selling of real estate has been a part of his business activity at the beach, Wallace said that he contemplates giving more time to this branch of his operations than he has in the past.

At the same time, he declared that real estate around the harbor and on Newport Mesa is very active, and that it is only a matter of time when there will be still greater activity.

Realtor Will Ask Service Extension

Pointing to the rapid increase in the number of homes and families in the district south of Edinger street, A. B. Roussele, subdivider of McFadden tract No. 4, today announced his intention of at once inaugurating steps to induce the Pacific Electric Land company to extend its bus service south on Main street to Delhi road.

The bus now stops at the corner of Edinger and Main streets. He declares that many men, women and school children who use the service reside many blocks below Edinger, and that business will justify extension of the service to Delhi road.

WIRE FIRM AT ORANGE GAINS IN PRESTIGE

Demand For Product May Require Enlarging of
Plant In Future

When one thinks of Orange county the mind's eye naturally sees a county of citrus orchards, walnut groves, and other agricultural products. That is the first mental picture of Orange county. There is another phase of development in this county that, while it is only beginning, bids fair to exceed even the agricultural development. This is the development of the county and all communities within its bounds as industrial centers. The town of Orange, nearest neighbor to the north of Santa Ana, is the home of not only one of the nation's largest, but the only wire and cable company west of Chicago.

Announcement was made recently that this company at present has orders for the manufacture of approximately five million pounds of insulated electric wire and cable representing business valued at approximately one million dollars to be delivered during the year 1924.

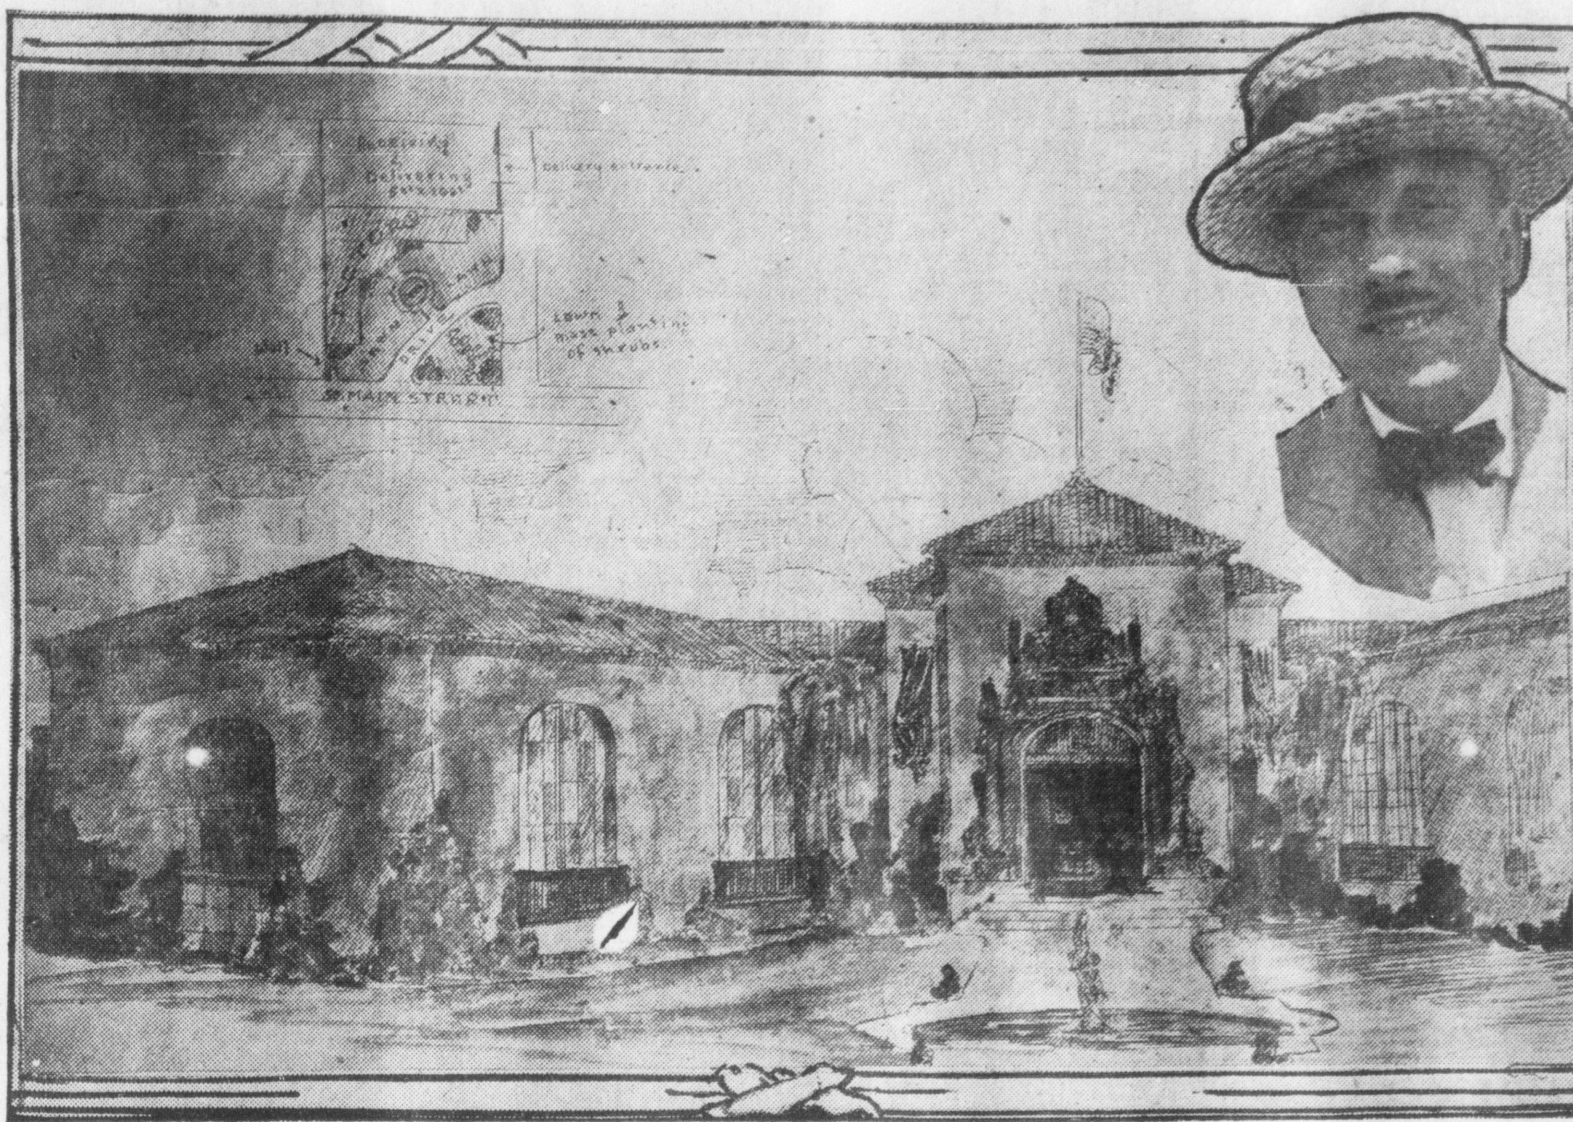

He But 2 Years
The California Wire Company, with its central plant in Orange, is perhaps better known in other sections of the United States and the world than it is here in Orange county. This concern was organized and opened the first unit of its plant in Orange less than two years ago. Since its opening the company has been forced to enlarge the plant several times. According to a recent statement by one of the company's officials if business continues during the year 1924 as orders now on hand indicate it will necessitate another remodeling before the end of the year.

When the California Wire Company started in Orange and the demand for its products grew by leaps and bounds the California Cordage Company, a sister organization, opened a plant for the manufacture of the cotton yarn used in the making of insulated wire. Other products of this company such as twine and rope find a ready market in the east. According to a recent statement by an official of the cordage company, that organization's big problem is not in the finding of a market for its products but in securing prompt delivery of cotton shipments.

Deal Rumored
The factory has recently been forced to suspend operations for several days because of a delay in the arrival of shipments he said. With the arrival of the first of the week, of this delayed shipment operations were renewed. In addition to supplying all of the yarn

REALTORS OF COUNTY IN CLASS

Seventy-one realtors of Orange county are taking the course in real estate established by the University of Southern California and being given here once a week under the auspices of the Orange County Realtors association, according to a statement today by J. C. Wallace, secretary of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors.

A lecture in the course is given each Monday evening at the Frances E. Willard junior high school. The purpose of the course, Wallace said, is to teach realtors the various fundamentals of real estate deals and the preparation of papers involved in a transaction.

Harrison Lewis, president of the Harrison Lewis company, Beverly Hills, presented the lecture Monday evening of this week, his subject being "Selling Improved City Property."

Pointing out that dealers identified with the local and state organizations are gaining the confidence of the real estate buying public, Lewis said the realty business is evolving itself into a profession.

Stresses Honesty
Stressing the importance of honesty and familiarity with the purposes to which a piece of property may be placed, Lewis said that a successful salesman must inspire confidence.

"They should, at all times, bear in mind the limitation of their prospects," said the lecturer. "They should anticipate future de-

REALTORS TO HOLD FARM PARLEY

Completion of the factory building of the Shavo company, on South Main street is anticipated by January 1, it was announced by York Coleman, vice-president of the company.

At the same time Coleman stated that plans were being perfected for starting manufacturing of Shavo, a shaving cream, as soon as the factory building is completed and machinery can be installed.

Pointing out that the company is closing its factory at Stockton to take up the manufacture of Shavo here, Coleman said that other officers of the company would come here to establish homes.

A material increase in production would result by location of the company here and construction of the new factory plant.

Coleman said that sales of Shavo continue to increase, and he today predicted a development of a tremendous volume.

Central Business Property Is Safe

"Central business property is the best investment known," George R. Le Baron, leasing manager of W. I. Hollingsworth and company, of Los Angeles.

He stated that this form of realty "has consistently through the years, maintained its position as the most satisfactory business investment known to man, and investment with maintaining such a position, has furnished some of the most remarkable stories in business romance this country has ever known."

Le Baron gave as reasons for such investment the safeguards, the stability, the enhancement, the dividends, loan values and location. "In 300 years, central business property in New York has not failed, and today the great insurance companies of the country are looking upon central business property in our great cities in the same manner as they consider New York central property."

REALTORS TO HOLD FARM PARLEY

According to Everett A. White, of this city, vice-president of the California Real Estate association for the eighth district, real estate dealers in the six counties of Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego and Los Angeles are manifesting a deep interest in the farm land and country property conference to be held at the Mission Inn at Riverside, on Saturday.

"We are confronted with the problem of the over development of the cities to the detriment of the development of the agricultural resources of California," said White today. "The back country must keep pace with the growth of the cities and industrial development or we will be confronted with a serious problem."

The day will be devoted to the discussion of farm lands and "How to increase sales and revive interest in country property."

"The Realtor's Duty to the Buyer of California Lands" will be discussed by Freeman H. Bloodgood, of Santa Ana.

"California farm lands and the farm situation as it is today," is the topic Dr. Herman Jannas, of

Demands Probe of Brokers' Finances

In a statement recently, President Henry P. Barbour of the California Real Estate association demanded that the surety companies now writing bonds for real estate brokers make a thorough investigation of the finances of all applicants to become real estate brokers. This investigation to be made in connection with issuing the $2,000 bond to brokers as required by law.

"I am standing right behind our state real estate department in this important matter," President Barbour said. "The present bond provision was enacted by the legislature and became law with the governor's signature at our request. The bond is especially intended to protect the public in real estate transactions. Those guaranteeing the good faith and integrity and financial security of real estate brokers should demand a financial statement from all applicants. A bond fee of $20 for a $2,000 bond is excessive and if each company required a financial statement of all applicants, the bond fee could be reduced and several hundred thousand dollars saved to realty dealers. I am calling on all boards and members to assist the department."

Build in Air FOR FUTURE. IS ADVICE TO LAND HOLDERS

Plan Structures Ahead of Certain Growth of Business District
NEED MORE OFFICES
Harvest Income Through
Utilizing Space Over
Ground Floor

BY PAUL M. VISSMAN.
A local business man recently gave some building advice that upon consideration appeared to be the soundest advice that has been given in many months regarding the growth of Santa Ana and its future. He said, "owners of property in the business district who are contemplating building improvements and the erection of new structures should look into the future, five or even ten years, then consider if the building they are planning is large enough for the certain growth that will come to this city in that period. Too many of the property owners have builded too late for the present and learned too late that business in this city had grown beyond the accommodations offered by their structure."

"Had these business men done one or two things; either builded structures ahead of the present growth of Santa Ana as regards room or planned their buildings of such strength that additional stories could be added as business and the growth of the city demanded it they would not now be trying to do business in houses that are inadequate for the amount of business transacted."

This advice seems sound and opens up possibilities in development that have been overlooked by many. It opens up the possibility of an income to be harvested from the air. There are limits to the amount of floor space that can be secured in any structure but there is no limit to the space to be secured through building into the air. Instead of erecting a two-story block, or even a three-story block, erect a building of six or more stories or so construct the smaller building that more stories may be added as the city's growth demands it.

Space above the ground floor is not wasted. There is a shortage of office space for rent in Santa Ana and as long as the city maintains its present rate of expansion there always will be this shortage. So construct the upper floors of a building that they may be rented as offices. When necessary these years of college work, are very great. A small college gives the freshman a chance to find himself and to get into things.

STUDENTS ASK SUPPORT FOR COLLEGE

"At a large university, the new student is completely lost and unknown. This tends to discourage him, and make him get the 'don't care' attitude, so that he is likely to fall down in his studies, and never take part in any activities. On the other hand, in Junior College, the new student knows half the student body after he has been there two weeks, and he knows practically everyone by the end of the first semester. This makes him feel at home and encourages him. Furthermore, every student can get into some activity, even if he doesn't do anything more than join one or two of the many clubs, and take an active part in the work of these clubs. "Another great advantage of Junior College is the individual instruction that the student receives, that he does not receive at a large university. At California university the professor lectures to as many as 2500 students in a class, and knows perhaps a dozen students out of the whole class, personally. The professor will lecture twice a week in a three hour course, and the other day the class will be split up into sections with a quiz, or possibly a discussion, in charge of some more advanced student.

"Students grade examination papers and the professor never even sees the papers. On the other hand, at Junior college, there are small classes, usually not more than thirty students in a class, and many with less than twenty. Each class is in charge of a competent instructor, who follows the outline of work as given at the University of California; but who knows every member of the class personally, grades all the examination papers, knows exactly how every student is getting along, and gives the students individual help if necessary. This system is infinitely superior to that when the only instructor who knows the students at all, is some more advanced student who may or may not be competent.

"The second big advantage of the Junior College, is the advantage of staying at home while attending college. I need not enlarge on this very much; but the parents especially, realize the advantage of keeping the children at home and under home and family influence as long as possible. The children are kept home two years longer by attending Junior college.

Financial Advantage.
"We now come to the third class of advantages of Junior college—that class which for many students is the great and deciding factor—the question of finances. "It is impossible for any student to go away to any college or university for less than $600 a year, and most students spend $800 to $1000—many as high as $1500. At Junior college the cost is from $39 to $50 per year. This is invaluable to poor students. Many could not go to college at all if they had to pay $600 a year, but can easily afford to pay $40 a year.

"Although there are many students going to Junior college because they could not afford to go elsewhere, there is also a large number attending simply because they want to, even though they can afford to go away. This is especially true of second year students and is becoming more and more true all the time. And I ask you, what is the use of paying out $800 a year to send your boy or girl away to college, when they can attend Junior College for $40 a year, and receive better instruction than if they went away to a large university?

"Now in closing, I want to say that I have not invented all the advantages of Junior college to this individual, myself. All of the foremost educators feel the same way. That is why the state university encourages Junior colleges, and why Junior college work is fully accredited at any college or university.

"Finally, I want to ask you to support Junior college and Junior college activities. Santa Ana has a real college and it is something to be proud of; but in the past the townspeople have not supported it as they should. Possibly this is because they have not known much about Junior College. But now, you men, at least, know something of what Junior college is, and what it is doing, and we ask you to support us."

THE VALUE OF COLLEGE TO SANTA ANA JUNIOR COLLEGE TO THE COMMUNITY.

By William Adamson, Student Body Treasurer.
"The value of the Junior College may be divided into three classes: financial, social and cultural. Financially the students of the Junior College save the community over $184,000.00 a year. There are over 250 students in the local college who would each pay on an average of $800.00 a year to some other community if they had to go away to college. Of course all these students would not be able to go away to an outside college, but a penny saved is a penny earned and this year the students are earning over $184,000.00 for the community.

"It may be well to explain that the community does not mean Santa Ana alone but the entire Santa Ana Junior College district. This includes Orange, Tustin, Garden Grove, San Juan Capistrano and other outlying high school districts. The Santa Ana junior college is making for a better community feeling throughout the entire southern part of Orange county.

"The teachers and instructors in the junior college all live in and around Santa Ana. They have brought their families and their material wealth and have placed both at work building up the community. J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, also states that many families have come to his attention who have settled in Santa Ana because of the advantages offered in the local Junior College.

Social Benefits.
"Socially the benefits are just as great. Through the student body activities in a small college like ours bonds of friendship generally are much greater than in a larger institution. After a student has spent two years after high school in the local junior college his chances of making his permanent home in southern Orange county are increased one hundred percent over the same chances when he goes away for four years to an outside college. Then, too, he is meeting Orange county students under Orange county conditions. What the future of Orange county demands is citizens educated in Orange county, having many Orange county friends and interested in Orange county problems. The Junior college is helping to make this possible.

"The cultural value of a college education is not questioned. The only objection of many is that culture does not increase the earning power of the individual. Certainly the cultured person is more happy. But culture also affects the capacity to earn money. Appreciation of "the better things in life" affects the social standing, and social standing soon affects the earning power.

"The Santa Ana Junior College is offering the community wonderful advantages, financial, social, cultural—and in return wants the support of the community to carry on this work. We need "moral support" at all times and financial support at times of bond elections. Without the strong backing of the community the junior college cannot take its place as a leading agency for good in Santa Ana."

WHAT WE HAVE IN JUNIOR COLLEGE

By George E. Morton, Commissioner of Publications.

"College is primarily a place to study, and it is in this line that Santa Ana Junior College excels. The students of the local college are not the left overs that could not go to a larger school, but are some of the cleverest students of their class in high school. Records show that more Santa Ana high school honor students go to Junior College than to all the other colleges in the country together. The students here are just as bright and popular as students any place. "Then, the courses offered here: A large percent of you gentlemen are college men, and you know that the first two years of college work for any degree are largely general and certain requirements are usually run off. At our local institution one may take anything that is necessary for nearly any course and get full credit equal in all respects to work taken at the University of California, for the first two years. Not only that but you can get it better here than away.

Competent Faculty.

"The smaller classes, individual attention, the splendid courses offered, and the faculty that we have make this possible. The staff we have teaching in Junior College is as good as there is in California. Some of the teachers are national experts in their line. For example, E. M. Nealley is an authority on philosophy, sociology, and psychology, and he is teaching in Junior College because he wants to. Miss Jennie Lasby, who teaches astronomy and history of science, is equally well known. Miss Lasby has spent much time working with the greatest men of science at Mt. Wilson and is one of the best known women scientists in this section of the country. And the same with Professor J. Russell Bruff, who conducts the biology course. Miss Lella Watson is one of the foremost language teachers in the state. And so it goes, from the dean down, certainly our faculty is one of which the town may well be proud. Expressively put "they sure know their onions." It is only natural that with the students, courses, and faculty we have in Junior college that the University of California affiliated itself with Junior College and ranked Santa Ana Junior College first among the junior colleges of the state last year. If a student wants to study there is no better place than Junior College.

"There are a large number of active organizations in Junior College. There is the French club, Latin club, Spanish club, German club, Music club, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Debating clubs, Literary club, Men's organization, Women's organization, Honor society, etc. These various organizations give the students opportunity for outside activities that are both pleasurable and profitable and they mean nearly as much as the lectures, in many ways. Many of the foremost educators of the country say that the absence of fraternities is desirable for the first two years. These organizations take the place of frats in the life of the college.

"The activities of the junior college student body are numerous. Inter-college contests of all kinds are cared for under the league of which Santa Ana Junior College is a member, and which includes all the Junior Colleges of the South. In football this year we did not win all our games but we did make a reputation for Santa Ana wherever we went, for hard hitting and clean playing; and that is the main thing. Last year in basketball they did well, and this year they hope to take the honors. Track has always been a strong feature of Junior College athletics and this year we are planning to start a baseball team. Also women's athletics are strong. Recently they went down to El Centro and beat them at basketball and to date they have nearly won the league. Last year we won the state championship in debating and we have started for another this year by defeating Fullerton by unanimous decisions in a double header debate. The monthly social affairs of the college are to be highly commended. These parties do more than anything to get the students acquainted and to conduct their social affairs under wholesome conditions and under proper chaperonage. Junior College has lots of activities in all lines, we've got something besides a good course of study; and we're equally proud of both.

"Now you may be thinking by this time that we have everything. But there are two things we lack. The first is college spirit. Last year it just started but this year it is going strong and before the year is out it will take the town off its feet. The other thing is support by the town—and it is for this that I want to make a plea for your help. Not only have you got a Junior College in town to be proud of and worthy of your support but it is to your interests as business men to boost for us and get us behind you. There are 235 live men and women down there that practically control 235 families and two neighbors on either side. Now the point is, 235 families and two neighbors on either side are a very big factor in the community today, and whether they boost or knock a thing is going to be a big item in determining its success. It is to your interests as business men to stand behind us. The college is a big thing to us. It is a big thing to you. We need you and you need us. "Now you ask what can you do. We want you to talk Junior College continually, talk it up among yourselves and to your friends. We want you to support all our activities, and I promise you there will be plenty of opportunities offered to you both as an organization and as individuals during the remainder of the year. We want you to be real boosters for Junior College at all times."

Gift Automobiles Attract Attention

According to A. B. Roussele, the "gen-oo-wine 1924 model" Junior Packard he is going to give away at 2 p. m. December 24, is attracting hundreds of boys and girls to the corner of Fourth and Sycamore streets, where the car is on display. At the same time he said the Star touring car, to be given to adults, and also exhibited at the corner, is attracting lots of attention. He pointed out that the only condition specified for opportunity to secure either one of the prizes is registration at the tract office of his new subdivision, McFadden tract No. 4. "The Junior Packard is equipped with 'extras' windshield, stop signal and all the trimmings that make a car look like a million," said Roussele. "The only thing that seems to be missing is the gas tank, which is, after all, only a minor detail."

NOW YOU CAN END RHEUMATIC PAINS

Germany Chemistry Achieves Another Triumph

Nothing is so important in medical practice as the conquest and elimination of pain. For many years German scientists have specialized on this subject, producing many of the most important medical discoveries of the age, among which are Aspirin for the relief of headache, pain and Novocain for painless dentistry. Now, from the same source comes Buhler Oil for Rheumatic pain, a scientific formula that penetrates the skin almost instantly, and in a few minutes producing that comfortable feeling that means so much to sufferers.

Knowing that rheumatic pains must have a definite cause, these German chemists persisted in their experiments, finally arriving at the conclusion that toxic poisoning from clogged intestines was transmitted through the blood to joints and muscles causing inflammation. After that it was a problem of finding the right combination of materials to counteract and quickly rid the path.

Buhler Oil has been used by an immense number of people with almost universal success. Many stubborn long-standing cases have responded quickly to this remarkable lubricant. So astonishing have been the results and so universal the praise accorded Buhler Oil by users that local druggists are glad to endorse it and will cheerfully refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied. Buhler Oil is for sale in this city by White Cross Drug Co., Wingood Drug Co.—Adv.

BUILD IN AIR FOR FUTURE, IS ADVICE

floors can be remodeled into additional space for ground floor department stores at considerable less cost than would be required to build a complete new addition.

A proposed industrial program is being planned for Santa Ana that if carried out, and there is little doubt that it will be, will increase the demand for office space. Plans for the development of Newport Harbor into a commercial port seem assured of success at present. If this port is ever opened to shipping Orange county will become affiliated with international commerce in such a way that the demand for office space will more than double. It is only logical to suppose that this demand for office space will be made in Santa Ana as will the need for larger mercantile establishments.

In view of these reasons why the demand for larger buildings and more office space will increase is it not logical that the business man mentioned in the opening paragraph should advise owners of business property to "build into the air for the future?"

Stating that modern business is becoming highly specialized, Lewis said that "each piece of improved business property is more adaptable to certain lines of business than to others, and a salesman should determine just what lines of business the property is adapted to and concentrate his efforts accordingly."

Proper analysis of property and refusal to list that upon which extravagant prices have been placed, the lecturer said, are points necessary to successful operations.

ORANGE, Dec. 13.—Last night was "Church Night" at the Presbyterian church in Orange. Every month a group of the women of the church give a supper for all the church members.

Last night the supper was given under the direction of Mrs. Klamm. A delicious meal was served which

This Year To Our Borrowers

Associations usually charge a commission or office expense of 2% on all loans made. This association does not make this charge.

As this Association has loaned $640,000.00 since January 1st, 1923, a charge of 2% would be$12,800.00

Associations usually charge 8.4% to 12% interest. This Association charges only 7.8% interest. The difference between a rate of 8.4% and a rate of 7.8% on $640,000.00 would in one year amount to 7,200.00

Savings in 1923 to Borrowers of This Association . . $20,000.00

As our applications for loans are several times the number of loans accepted, we are in a position to select the choicest loans which fact adds to the investment value of this Association.

TOM MEIGHAN'S LATEST FILM ON YOST SCREEN

When Thomas Meighan's latest story, "Woman-Proof," is flashed on the screen of the Yost theater tonight, the spectators will see a genuine explosion of nearly seven thousand cases of dynamite which was used in the blasting of a thirteen-mile tunnel at Huntington Lake, Cal., where work on the biggest hydro-electric project in the world, involving the expenditure of $27,000,000, was in progress at the time the picture was filmed.

This tunnel passes through a mountain, making the waters of Huntington Lake available for electric power. It is said to be the longest tunnel of its kind in the world. The project was undertaken by the Edison company to develop electric power for Los Angeles. This location is 340 miles north-east of Hollywood, in the Sierra mountains, and was chosen after a prolonged search for a spot where the most spectacular scenes of this kind could be filmed.

Meighan plays the role of a civil engineer who is supervising this huge industrial scheme. In the picture, the tunnel is supposed to cave in, entombing scores of workmen. The rescue of these men forms some of the most thrilling scenes in the picture. The following are the supporting players: Lila Lee, leading woman; Robert Agnew, Charles A. Sellon, Vera Reynolds, Bill Gonder and Mike Donlin.

"THE MIDNIGHT ALARM" AT WEST END TOMORROW
Alice Calhoun, who will be seen in "The Midnight Alarm," at the West End theater tomorrow, has set an example for motion picture luminaries.
Miss Calhoun has made it an inflexible rule that doubles for her should not be used in any picture. "I do not think it is fair to employ another woman to do the dangerous stunts and then give me the credit," Miss Calhoun declared recently. "I believe I should enact every bit of action demanded of me, whether it is dangerous or not, and if anyone must risk her life to enhance the value of the picture I feel I am the logical person to do so."

Miss Calhoun risked her life in making "The Midnight Alarm." In concluding the fire scenes, which are the most spectacular ever made, Miss Calhoun actually leaped four stories from a burning office building into a fireman's net. Miss Calhoun was singing in passing through the flames that shot from the structure. She also suffered slight bruises and was badly shaken up on striking the net.

WILLIAM S. HART SUPERVISED NEW FILM DETAILS

One of the greatest factors in the success of a William S. Hart production is the fact that it is exactly that. From the moment of the conception of the idea of a photograph, usually in his own mind, Hart personally supervises every detail of story preparation, continuity writing, production, titling and finally cutting.
"Wild Bill Hickok" now showing at the West End, his first production for release since his return to the screen, is the exemplification of Hart's method. Over a period of years he collected the material for the story. Then he wrote the story. He conferred with the continuity writer. Then, from the moment the production was started, he personally supervised every detail.

Hart is a firm believer in the adage that if you want a thing done well, do it yourself, or at least see that someone does it as you would have it done.

Sale of Dolls Aids Fund for Soldiers

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—A substantial sum to be devoted to Christmas gifts for the disabled soldiers at Camp Kearny was realized yesterday by the American Legion Auxiliary through the sale of daintily dressed dolls which were displayed in front of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank. S. A. Postal Employees Praise Princess Film Employees of the Santa Ana post office were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker of the Princess theater at the initial screening here of "The Mail Man," Emory Johnson's latest production starring Ralph Lewis and dedicated to the United States postal workers.

Members of the local post office staff today publicly thanked Mr. and Mrs. Walker for their courtesy and heartily commended the picture to Santa Ana screen patrons as a film truthfully portraying the numerous duties and responsibilities encountered by members of the service.

The final showing of the production will be made tonight.

"THE MAIL MAN" IS STORY OF POSTAL SERVICE

How many pairs of shoes does a mail man wear in a year?
Ralph Lewis, who made a study of the question in preparation for his work in the title role of "The Mail Man," Emory Johnson's latest commercial hero story, and the current attraction at the Princess, says he found one postman that had worn out as many as twenty-five pairs during the fifty-two weeks. There are hundreds of mailmen in the country who will vouch for the above statement and many thousands who will enjoy seeing themselves as Emory Johnson sees them to say nothing of the general public in daily touch with the most important branch of Uncle Sam's civil service workers, for Johnson has cleverly blended humor, pathos and thrilling action into the production of the picture.

No Need For Diogenes To Hunt Further For 'Honest Man' Found

G. A. Schweiger, manager of St. Ann's Inn, was ready to reaffirm today the fact that most men are honest.

He had received $5 from G. D. Davidson, Los Angeles jeweler, a recent dinner guest at the Inn, that amount representing the sum Davidson was "long changed."

A shortage had been checked in the Inn's books, but it was not accounted for until Davidson's money was received.

Davidson is head of a "confidence-inspiring jewelry store," Schweiger said.

It is expected also that men and women of Anaheim will be in attendance, as members of the club there will be invited to join in the installation exercises.

It was expected that a large number of local members will go to Riverside tomorrow evening to attend a dinner and reception at the Mission Inn in honor of the new district governor, Heber Winder.

The late president, W. G. Harding, was a Kiwanian, and attention of the club was called by Wellington to the fact that this week is Harding Memorial week. Organization of a $3,000,000 memorial fund has been started for the erection of a memorial and for a supporting fund.

Allot S. A. Elks 100 East-West Game Seats

Elks of this vicinity who wish to secure tickets for the annual East and West football game, scheduled for Pasadena on New Year's day, may do so by calling at the local club, according to Secretary Wassner here today, who said:

"One section, or 2600 seats, is the allotment given. Santa Ana lodge has been given 100. Elks who wish to obtain these tickets are urged to call and make their reservations immediately, as the limited supply will not last long."

The Elks division at the Pasadena stadium, it was said, assigns the rooting section assigned the West.

GIRL AND FATHER INJURED IN CRASH

Miss Alta La Gorge, 24, residing near Anaheim, was severely injured and her father, F. R. La Gorge, was slightly bruised in a spectacular traffic accident at Anaheim today.

The LaGorge car, striking the front of a machine driven by George C. Pickering, R. D. 3, Anaheim, which had stopped in an effort to avoid the impending collision, turned over twice and brought up a distance of sixty feet away.

Miss LaGorge, who is a bookkeeper for a plumbing company at Brea, received injuries to her back and was removed to an Anaheim hospital. Her father proceeded to his home, his injuries being inconsequential, it was said. Pickering was unhurt.

The crash took place at the intersection of Sycamore and East streets in Anaheim, yesterday.

LOCAL SAVANTS AT EDUCATION SESSIONS

Announcement of the decision to postpone the meeting of the Santa Ana Teachers' league until a date after the Christmas holidays was made here today. The combined reports of delegates to the National Education association convention and world conference, held last July in Oakland and San Francisco, and those to the annual convention of the California Teachers' association, Southern section, to be held today and Friday in Los Angeles, then will be presented, J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, said.

The meeting of the Santa Ana league was to have been held last Monday night, but was postponed because of bad weather. The reports of delegates to the San Francisco and Oakland conventions were to have been presented at this meeting.

Delegates named to attend the Southern section convention in Los Angeles are Cranston; D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school; W. M. Clayton, vice-principal of the high school; H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school, and Will C. Kellogg, principal of the Francis E. Willard school.

Hammond, who is president of the junior college section of the association, presided at the meeting of that body this morning.

Cranston, named as a member of the resolutions committee for the convention, requested and received the appointment of L. L.

MAGNATE OPPONENTS CRUSHED BY LANDIS

Baseball Czar Defies Foes
By Taking Offensive In Hot Conclave Session

BY JAMES T. KOLBERT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The dynamic king of baseball still sits on his throne.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, crushed his opposition with a torrid speech to the joint meeting of the American and National league owners late yesterday and concluded with the deft, "to take it or leave it."

While happenings at the meeting are being held secret, it was learned on excellent authority that the judge did not give his enemies an opportunity to start an offensive. He leaped to the attack. He used a few harsh words, including a charge that certain folks were "swineish." He headed off an attack on his miscellaneous expense account of $12,000 last year by stating that he had vouchers for every cent expended.

Landis told the moguls he was fed up on the abuse and slurs heaped on him and ended by offering to give up his $50,000 a year job. The meeting ended with the judge winning almost every point.

When Ban B. Johnson, president of the American league, walked from the room, he was asked whether Landis had applied the word "swine" to any one in particular.

Realize Landis' Value
"Well, he didn't use exactly that word," was Ban's reply.

Landis can have his job for a long time if he wants it, one of the owners made it known, because even Landis' enemies realize his value to the game.

The commissioner emerged from the room clutching a frayed cigar firmly in his teeth; the high, old-fashioned collar was considerably crushed; the scarf knot was pulled to one side; the soft hat was bashed into the shape of a battered sombrero and whips of his long white hair straggled about the very determined face. He cast one of his typical ferocious glances at the newspapermen and then his face broke into a wide grin. He shook hands but shook his head in the negative to requests for details.

Practically all of the amendments to the league rules proposed by Landis already were adopted.

Outstanding was No. 10, which gives Landis jurisdiction over disputes involving umpires' salaries. All claims for more than $300 will go to Landis for settlement.

New Waiver System
Other amendments considered important and adopted were:

Giving the lowest standing club in the final pennant standing first opportunity to obtain players on waiver.

Authorizing the commissioner to disprove any player transfer when the consideration is not fixed.

No exhibition games against a team which has contained an ineligible player during the past year.

When the date of an agreement falls on Sunday or a national holiday, the following day will be deemed the one intended.

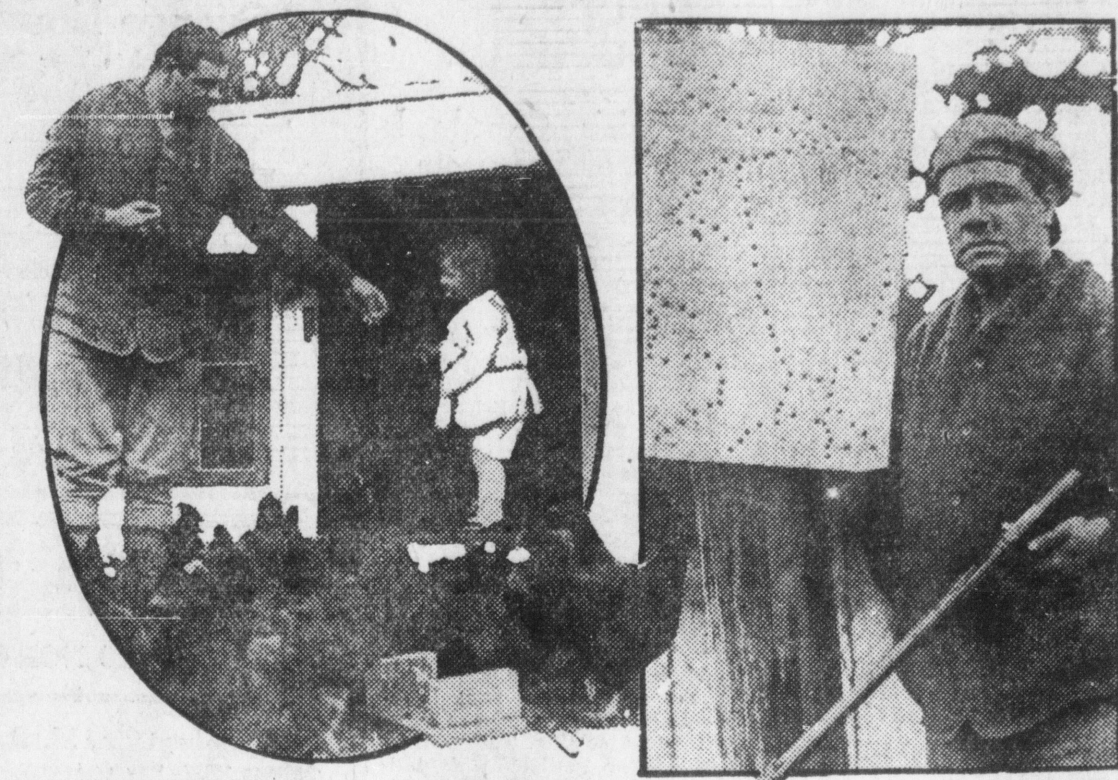

Many moguls are still here and several minor league meetings are still in progress.

Several deals were completed last night.

The Atlanta club of the Southern Association bought Bill McCabe, outfielder; Elmer Ponder, pitcher, and "Red" Smith, third baseman, from the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

Pittsburgh bought Roy Kremer, pitcher of the Oakland club of the Coast league for cash and three players.

DOBIE SETS GREAT RECORD AS MENTOR

Famous Cornell Coach Has Tasted Defeat Only Once
In Almost 20 Years

Gil Dobie, famous football mentor at Cornell university, may well be called the "miracle coach." If anyone deserves such an appellation it is Gloomy Gil, the most pessimistic pre-game tutor in captivity.

Dobie is almost in a class by himself when it comes to turning out championship gridiron machines. He easily ranks with Yost, Zuppke, Rockne and Haughton as a developer of winning teams. In other words, he "knows his stuff," and then some.

Dobie has been coaching football aggregations for well nigh onto 20 years. He got his start at the University of Washington, out on the west coast. For nine straight seasons Dobie and his Washington lads never tasted defeat. Year after year the opposition was trampled upon. Victories, naturally, grew to be anticipated regardless of the strength of the foe.

A few years back, Dobie was finally enticed to come east. He came, bringing his wonderful reputation with him. Just at about that time the University of Detroit was in need of a high-class coach. It signed the great Dobie to a contract. Soon after came an offer from Annapolis. It appeared better to Dobie than did the Detroit project. So he obtained a "release" from the U. of D. authorities and went to Annapolis.

With the Navy, Dobie experienced the same success that had been his out in the far west. Navy elevens perked up. They enjoyed winning campaigns. And Dobie was generally acclaimed by the elite east. He had made good. He had lived up to the reputation established at Washington.

After a couple seasons at Annapolis Dobie signed up as football coach at Cornell. That was in 1920. And there he has been since.

BY BILLY EVANS

The simple life did it.

If you asked Babe Ruth how he staged the greatest comeback in the history of sport, that would be his reply.

When the season of 1922 was brought to a close with the absolute rout of the New York Yankees Babe Ruth went into winter quarters a broken idol.

During the season his play had fallen below expectations and in the series he was a positive "bust."

The Babe is through.

That was the opinion freely expressed by his fellow players and sporting experts.

Near the close of the 1922 season the Babe bought a farm at Sudbury, Mass. At that time he must have realized that he had been a failure. In all probability he was then giving thought to his intended comeback.

Strong for Simple Life
"Me for the simple life," he told New York when he bade Broadway and its bright lights goodbye.

"The bunk," echoed the sport experts.

I had a chat with the Babe just prior to his departure for the farm and the simple life. I realized he had the best of intentions but wondered if he had the solid determination to carry them through.

This spring I met Babe Ruth in the lobby of the Grunewald Hotel in New Orleans. I had just hit the town on my tour of the training camps. Ruth was chatting with Manager Miller Huggins.

Never had I seen Ruth in such excellent physical condition. He was lighter than at any time in his career, scaling just a trifle over 200. I congratulated him on how well he looked.

"The simple life down on the farm did it," he replied, "and you can tell the world I am going to fool a lot of the wise guys who insisted I was through. I am lighter than at any time in my major league career."

"When you made the 59 home runs in one season you weighed around 240 all year," said Manager Huggins.

"True," replied the Babe, "but all I did that year was make home runs. This year I am going to be a regular ball player, do a bit of everything."

Staged Real Comeback
"Loss of weight has made me much faster. Reducing the waist-

Marty Kane vs. Bennie Shannon, 128 pounds.

Ralph Walker vs. Skip Leabo, 128 pounds.

Walter Beck vs. Leo Dunbar, 118 pounds.

Johnny Borgess vs. "Red" Perry, 138 pounds.

Back in something like the form that sent him up the ladder to be classed as one of the best middleweight boxers in the four-round game, Kid Mexico, veteran Huntington Beach mitt man and promoter, will meet Ernie Owens, elongated Vernon 158-pounder, in the main event at Huntington Beach tomorrow night.

Mexico has profited by his absence from the ring of three line and the chest measurement has given me a much freer arm movement with the result that I have improved my throwing arm 50 per cent. Incidentally I am through swinging at every pitch—I'm going to look them over, make the pitchers pitch to me."

The comeback of Babe Ruth is baseball history. He did everything he said he would and then some. He topped it off by being the hero instead of the bust of the 1923 world series.

The Babe has profited by experience. He is again spending the winter at dear old Sudbury and keeping fit by hunting, doing the chores around the house, in general by leading the simple life.

More power to you, Babe, say the fans.

months. He felt he was going stale and decided to quit boxing but the call was too great and when he found he could step through the paces as good as ever he determined to have another fling at the game.

Has Good Record.
In Owens, the Huntington Beach boy is picking on a fast-coming lad with youth, boxing ability and punching prowess to his credit. Owens has defeated Larry Imen, Sailor Ritter, Sailor Larry, Racehorse Roberts and Young George and is aiming for a bout with the coast champion, Bert Colima.

Johnny Reno, conqueror of Sammy Santos and Packy McMullen, and holding a six-round draw with Danny Kramer, gets on in the semi-windup against Joe Mendino, one of the best junior lightweights on the coast. Mendino has mastered Santos, McMullen and Ashton Donza.

Conley, Ryan Matched.
Johnny Conley and Herb Ryan, welterweights, draw the feature spot assignment. Conley recently went to a draw with Roy Moore at Huntington Beach. Ryan has performed many times at Vernon and

RICKARD CONSIDERS 3 BOUTS FOR CHAMP

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Propositions for three big heavyweight contests in which Jack Dempsey will be asked to defend the title here next summer probably will be made before the end of the week by Tex Rickard.

Dempsey is to arrive here today for an indefinite stay and Rickard wants to talk over dates, prices and names with the champion and his manager, Jack Kearns.

Rickard wants Dempsey to engage in return matches with Luis Firpo and Tommy Gibbons and he will also offer Harry Wills a chance at the title if he feels that he would not encounter any of the well known obstacles that blocked previous efforts to make the match.

Dempsey wants to take the three outstanding heavyweights next summer and he learned last summer that he works best when he has plenty of work.

The champion is anxious to give Tommy Gibbons another fight. He told friends recently that he figured Gibbons was entitled to get some real money after holding the bag in Shelby last July.

Dempsey also has changed his mind about Wills. The champion was sincere last September when he said that he never would give Wills a chance to have any money out of him after Wills had tried to block the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

PORT CHAMBER DIRECTORS TO NOMINATE

Membership Drive In Early Spring Being Planned At Harbor

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 13.—The annual meeting of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce board of directors will be held tonight at the Newport Harbor Yacht club.

At this meeting nominations for directors will be made. In addition any member of the organization may nominate a candidate. Lists of nominations are then mailed to members and the ballots will be deposited in ballot boxes in the three communities of Costa Mesa, Newport and Balboa. The election will be held about the middle of January.

Pick Eleven Directors
The directors then canvass the vote and the eleven highest are declared elected. Officers for the ensuing year are chosen from the newly appointed directorate.

The first year's work, or rather nine months, as the Chamber was organized in the spring of this year, has been a most successful one. The harbor chamber was organized to devote its energies toward harbor development, good roads and the bringing in of industries. Its present secretary-manager, Harry Welch, was secured about three months after a most careful selection.

Welch is Praised
That his appointment is considered most opportune is shown by the large amount of work already accomplished by the Chamber. It was the carefully compiled report of Mr. Welch that was largely responsible for the prompt action taken by the Board of U. S. Army engineers, in ordering a resurvey of Orange county's harbor.

The membership is steadily growing and it is planned to put on a membership drive early in the new year.

Hospital Patients Object to Noise Of Bumping Trucks

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—

Declaring that patients in the Fullerton general hospital are considerably harassed by the steady movement of heavily laden trucks on Pomona, Mrs. Cora Hale, a recent patient at that institution, has written to the city council in hopes that steps might be taken to alleviate the annoyance to patients.

According to the letter, a nerve-racking rumbling starts as early in the morning as 4 o'clock and continues until late in the afternoon.

SEWER LINE AT ORANGE TO BE SPEEDED UP

ORANGE, Dec. 13.—With the passage of a resolution authorizing the acquiring of the necessary right of way for Orange's independent sewer line, across property west of the city, the city board, meeting in regular session, took steps to expedite launching of work on the project.

Adopted by a unanimous vote the resolution named Mayor O. E. Gunther, Trustee Walton and City Engineer Bonebrake, as constituting a sewer committee empowered to supervise proceedings in connection with proposed steps toward acquiring a permanent right of way by "purchase, dedication, condemnation or otherwise."

Orange's independent line, which will connect with the tri-city line in the inter-city outfall sewer to the ocean, in which Santa Ana, Fullerton and Anaheim are participating, will run from the present sewer tanks to a joint north of Garden Grove.

Repay Santa Ana

A warrant representing $26,247.04 was drawn in favor of Santa Ana yesterday, following presentation of a demand showing that that amount was due the Santa Ana city treasury for funds advanced to date for Orange's share of the work on the inter-city project.

The demand, signed by W. G. Knox, Santa Ana city engineer, presented an itemized account of the expenditures, deducting the November payment made by Orange a week ago.

The payments were made in connection with the pact reached by the two cities that Santa Ana would pay Orange's bills until a bond election providing funds for the local share of the work was voted, and the funds made available.

Official acceptance, however, was deferred by the city council yesterday afternoon until the culverts are completed, ending all work on the project.

According to City Engineer Bonebrake, the system is now in working order and nearly a quarter head of water, running wild from orchards under irrigation, was flowing into the creek, where the outlet is located, today.

Ten catch basins, installed on intersecting streets, are arresting the flow of rampant water which naturally flowed toward the city prior to the completion of the storm drain.

A warrant representing partial payment on the project was drawn in favor of L. D. Folsom, Santa Ana contractor, who installed the system, yesterday. Funds for the work were provided through a recent bond election.

Completion of work on the project will signalize early launching of paving activities on Cambridge street, where the system is located. Four blocks of paving, running from Palm street to Washington avenue, have been asked by property owners through petitions presented to the city council.

SISTERS REUNITED AFTER FORTY YEARS

BUENA PARK, Dec. 13.—Mrs. H. G. Bixby was very pleasantly surprised yesterday morning when, upon answering a ring at the door, she saw her sister, Mrs. J. S. Deeter of Burk Burnett, Texas. The sisters had not met for forty-two years, yet Mrs. Bixby recognized her sister though she did not know her name in the state. The Deeter family is looking for a location in Southern California.

SCHOOL BOARD SELECTS SITE FOR BLDG.

East Center Street to Be Location of New $110,000 Structure

ANAHEIM, Dec. 13.—A five-acre tract on East Center street, 500 feet east of the city limits, has been selected as the site for Anaheim's new $110,000 grammar school building. The selection was made at a meeting of the board of education Tuesday night, and negotiations for the tract were completed late yesterday, according to announcement by Superintendent C. C. Smith.

The site will be purchased from H. G. Buck for $22,000. The tract is so situated that when Broadway is extended to the east the school property will have a double frontage, facing north on Center street and south on Broadway. The city will be asked to extend the water mains to the tract and as soon as the preliminaries can be taken care of the board will proceed with the erection of the building.

Tentative plans that have been sketched for the school building provide for a twelve-room, one-story structure. The work will be completed before the opening of next school year.

In making the deal the owner reserved the right to remove two residences, now on the land. The school board will market the crop of oranges from the tract.

Popular Girl Is Bride at Anaheim

ANAHEIM, Dec. 13.—At a quiet ceremony performed in the parsonage of the Zion Lutheran Church at noon yesterday, Miss Alma Steffens, popular Anaheim girl, became the bride of Fred Bentjen, with the Reverend H. G. Schmelzer officiating.

Miss Alma Steffens, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Henry Miller attended the groom. The bride wore a charming gown of beige georgette and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid was gowned in turquoise blue taffeta.

Immediately following the ceremony, the young couple left for a short honeymoon trip to San Diego. Upon their return they will be at home to friends at the groom's ranch home on Burton avenue.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Steffens, 116 Bush street. Both of the young people have resided in Anaheim for a number of years and have many friends who wish them happiness.

MISS JACKMAN BRIDE AT FULLERTON WEDDING

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—At a simple ceremony attended by only a few of the bride's relatives, Miss Wanda Jackman of Fullerton was married yesterday morning in Los Angeles to Harold McGraw of that city.

Miss Jackman has been the honor guest at numerous pre-nuptial affairs, among them being a dinner by the faculty of the high school, when she was presented with a handsome gift. The groom, who is well known in Fullerton, is employed in the Vernon oil fields. The young couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

ENGAGEMENT OF GROVE WOMAN IS ANNOUNCED

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 13.—At a miscellaneous shower given last evening by Mrs. Levitt, Ford in honor of Mrs. Pearl Hoskins the engagement of Mrs. Hoskins to Earl Gregg, connected with a Long Beach newspaper, was announced. Corinne Cornett, two years old, was "Cupid" and brought in the presents for the bride-to-be.

Plans Accepted For New Ebell Quarters

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—The plan for the Fullerton Ebell club which was submitted by Fay Spangler, Santa Ana architect, has been accepted by the executive board of the club, by a unanimous decision. The plan, which is subject to alterations, provides for a commodious building in typical Spanish architecture, with an auditorium to accommodate five hundred people. An attractive dining room, with additional space for serving in the cloister, ample kitchen facilities as well as smaller rooms for meetings of various kinds, will provide conveniences not only for the Ebell club, but for the general community.

A suitable building committee will soon be chosen from the club membership, and following that, a vigorous financial campaign will be launched prior to the actual building of the house. The women of the club have already raised a substantial sum for the clubhouse fund.

Hi-Y Club Host to Fullerton Gridders

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—As a token of appreciation of the efforts of the Fullerton high school football team during the season just closed, the Hi-Y club of the school was host to the team members last evening at a banquet and program at the Methodist church gymnasium.

Talks by the coaches and captain of the team were given. One of the outstanding features of the program was entertainment furnished by Merle Waterman, Boys' Work secretary of the Hollywood Y. M. C. A.

Wig-Wag Signal to Warn of Crossing Is Sought at Fullerton

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—Stating that the street crossing over the Union Pacific tracks at Harvard avenue is a menace to motorists, Dr. Samuel Miller appeared before the city council at its last meeting and asked that a wig-wag signal be placed there as a warning to the public of approaching trains.

Dr. Miller stated that the danger is not in the approaching of steam trains, but the gasoline car was specified as the particular hazard. He declared that he had recently suffered a narrow escape at the crossing, and felt that a wig-wag is a necessity for the safety of the public.

The city clerk was instructed to request the Union Pacific officials to install the wig-wag at that point, and also another at the crossing on Pomona avenue, where the construction of additional packing houses is making it imperative that a safety device be installed.

MORE PAVEMENT IS APPROVED IN ORANGE

ORANGE, Dec. 13.—Adding another block to the Cambridge street paving program, now totaling four blocks, a petition, unanimously signed, was presented to the city board this week, seeking paving between Almond and Washington avenues.

The council, while favoring inclusion of another block, Washington to Palmyra avenue, in the same proceedings, approved the petition, ordering it filed by the city clerk.

Favors One Big Lot

In discussing the petition, the city board indicated that it favored paving from Palmyra avenue to Palm street at one jump, as the latter block, Washington to Palmyra avenue, would have to come later.

Doing the work under the present program, the council pointed out, would represent a saving to the property owners over awarding contracts block by block.

Ornamental lights, it was indicated, will probably follow in the wake of paving as property owners between Chapman avenue and Palm street have already petitioned the board for this improvement, while those between Chapman and Washington avenues are believed to favor the same course.

When completed, with paving extending from Palm street to Palmyra avenue, and in time with Palmyra avenue paved through to Main street, Cambridge street will take its place among the leading residential thoroughfares in the city, it was pointed out.

The council, in discussing the paving question, lauded the Cambridge street property owners for their progressive spirit in petitioning for paving. Property values, it was predicted, will rise along this street as a result of the improvement.

Among those signing the petition yesterday were Henry Pitcher, Walter V. Crane, E. D. Webster, O. A. Long, Frank Duff and C. E. Lush.

Buena Park P-T. A. Has "Stunt" Night

BUENA PARK, Dec. 13.—The meeting of the P-T. A. last night will be remembered as one of the most interesting meetings the organization ever has had.

It was "Daddy stunt night," and after a brief business meeting the meeting was turned over to Fred Bastady, chairman of the "Daddies," who with his assistants, George Cole, H. S. Horn, George McNeil, S. F. Hilgenfeld and Mr. Miller, proceeded to give the audience a very enjoyable time.

The program was as follows: Instrumental music, the Schofield family; song, Rev. S. F. Hilgenfeld; song, Mr. Miller of Fullerton; violin solo, Melvin Hilgenfeld.

The program was interspersed by laughable stunts, such as threading a needle while sitting on a jug. There was an apple eating contest with the contestants' hands tied behind their backs and apples placed on the floor. There was a hoop race and a relay race by the women. The prize in every case was a sucker as was also the refreshments.

Mrs. Feagin was the guest at the George Miller home in Cypress, Sunday. Miss Anna Luebke and Walter Luebke were motorized to San Bernardino Tuesday.

E. L. Luebke of Fullerton lost control of his car at the corner by Wright's filling station and crashed into the stone pillars, damaging his new Durant car, but luckily was not hurt himself.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Meyer were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly in Los Angeles, Sunday.

Herbert Shunk and family have moved back to their home on Tenth street after living for some time at the pump station at La Mirada. The pool hall is now located at the rear of the new foundation, and a good-sized store room will be built in front of it, making the entire building 106 feet long.

SOPHOMORES TO PRESENT PLAY AT SCHOOL

Zona Gale's Comedy Is Vehicle of Sophomore Class Players

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—"Miss Lulu Bett," an American comedy by Zona Gale, will be presented by the sophomore class of Fullerton Junior college tomorrow evening at the high school auditorium. Play Took $1000 Prize

The play, written in 1920, was awarded the $1000 prize offered by Joseph Pulitzer through Columbia university for "The American original play, performed in New York which shall best represent the educational value and power of the stage in raising the standard of good morals, good taste and good manners."

The action of the play is laid in the middle west, and as far as possible, the scenery has been constructed to preserve the atmosphere of that section. The play is one of intense realism, with delicately satiric portrayal of American home life.

Miss Elizabeth Tohill, instructor of Dramatic Art in Fullerton Junior college, is an experienced director of plays. She is a graduate of the Columbia College of Expression, Chicago, and has taken graduate work at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, New York city. She has had five years of experience in actual production, being in charge of all the dramatic productions at the State Teachers' college of Nebraska until last year, when she was in charge of the dramatic department at the State Teachers' college and Junior college at San Pedro.

Here is Cast
Jean McElheny plays the leading part as Lulu Bett, the household drudge in the home of her brother-in-law, who is portrayed by Harold Stahler. In Dwight Deacon the author's gift of satire is fully manifested. Monona Deacon is played by Janet Van der Veer. Other members of the cast are Grandma Deacon, Margaret Jones; Iva Deacon, Hazel Coleman; Diana Deacon, Dorothy Wentz; Bobby Larkin, Sam Walker; Neil Cornish, Alfred Bonney; Ninian Deacon, Hugh Hampton.

EVENING SALUTATION

To every man there openeth
A Way, and Ways and a Way,
And the High Soul climbs the High Way,
And the Low Soul gropes the Low,
And in between, on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every man that openeth
A High Way, and a Low,
And every man decideth
The way His Soul shall go.
—John Oxenham in "The Kings Highway."

JUDGE COX'S NEWEST MOVE

The inevitable has happened. Judge Cox has returned to the use of the county jail as a weapon of defense for the county against reckless driving.

Some months ago the Breed motor law, put through the legislature under the auspices of the automobile clubs of the state, went into effect. Under that law the use of evidence based on speed traps was outlawed. The law itself said that speeding beyond certain limits was unlawful, but, the law continued, in order to prosecute anyone violating the law, the best possible evidence against him shall not be used—that is, the evidence having to do with exact measurements of distances and exact taking of time with stop-watches.

That was but one feature of the new traffic law. Another was the effort to put motorcycle officers under state control. Two weeks ago this portion of the law was knocked out in the state courts, and counties are now shifting for themselves in an effort to find out how they can protect traffic from reckless and inconsiderate drivers.

One may not be very enthusiastic over the speed trap. It is an annoyance, to be sure. One can't go out and break the law without being in danger of arrest. Surely, that is reason enough for doing away with any law that we don't want to obey. But whether we are for it, the fact remains that under the state motor laws as they appeared on the statute books and as they were administered for the two years previous to the time the Breed law went into effect travel on the highways of this county was safer than it has been recently. Those who are in a position to know—and we are willing to take their judgment in the matter—say that recklessness on the highways in this county has increased immeasurably since the speed traps were discarded and some of the teeth of the motorcycle officer were thereby withdrawn.

We may not agree with Judge Cox. We may think that he has taken the bit in his teeth. Let us admit that he has. Some were just as dubious as to the advisability of his course when he began sending speeders to jail four or five years ago. Actual figures, however, proved that results were accomplished. While traffic increased tremendously, the number of accidents of a serious nature was reduced.

Our own opinion is that speeding is not so great a source of accidents as is cutting-in on the highway, unlawful attempting to pass when another car is approaching and carelessness at crossings and intersections. Nevertheless, knowledge that strict accountability is required in speeding seems to have its effect in keeping a motorist's attention to the other rules of the road as well as to the rule on speed; unlawful speed is the fuel that feeds the fires of carelessness. So, our sympathies are with Judge Cox in his newest and most drastic campaign. We aren't saying he is right in all the details, but we believe his actions are well founded. He has read conditions aright.

THE BOLL WEEVIL WAR

England is interested in cotton hardly less than America, because of the importance of the cotton spinning industry over there. Lately that interest has increased, from seeing the cotton films made by our Department of Agriculture. In Manchester and Liverpool the pictures drew great crowds. On one occasion they almost put the Manchester cotton exchange out of business by drawing away 1500 members from the trading hours.

The British observers were especially interested in the boll weevil problem, and they hope for the eradication of this pest almost as fervently as Americans. Most of the press comment on American methods of cotton production are complimentary. One newspaper says, however:

"What seems remarkable is that the American government has not yet learned its own lesson. It was quite obvious (from the films) that a field treated with calcium arsenate would yield an immensely greater weight of cotton than one not so treated. At the same time every inducement seemed to be offered for the boll weevil to fly away to the nearest untreated plantation and reproduce its species for the next season.

"Surely it should not be difficult for the government to take entire control and compel, if necessary at the expense of the state, treatment not only of the cotton plantations but also all adjoining vegetation which may harbor the insects."

A method similar to the one suggested has been used against the cattle tick in many states, for several years, with excellent results. It does seem strange, when you think of it, that such a destructive enemy as the boll weevil, which costs this country hundreds of millions a year, is not attacked by the power of the government as a foreign, human enemy would be, especially when the means of conquest are well known and not prohibitively expensive.

Humane organizations have been teaching children, for years and years, to be more kindly to all living things, and their spirit spreads. Naturalist societies have spread knowledge of many phases of wild life, making curious birds and beasts and creeping things too interesting to be killed. The schools, aided by newspapers and magazines, have done their part well, adding to the ordinary fundamentals of instruction a love for nature and a respect for all the lovely and harmless outdoor creatures unknown to any former civilization.

MONEY ENOUGH TO MARRY

Where are the pessimists who complain that home-loving men can't get married these days because the young women demand luxuries and pleasures that cost a heap of money? Forty co-ed students in a sociology class at the University of Minnesota were asked to reply to a questionnaire on this subject. A composite of their answers indicates that the following points are characteristic of the ideal mate:

"Moderately good looking, athletically inclined, morally clean, respectful toward religion, healthy, appreciative of the good and beautiful things of life, well trained socially, optimistic and good natured, chivalrous."

Impractical and romantic? Not entirely. Most of the students who placed these other points first also made it clear that they would require "a small bank account or a steady position to allow a comfortable existence with a small share of luxuries."

And there enters opportunity for further discussion. When is a small bank account large enough to permit a small share of luxuries and a comfortable existence? The pessimists will say that is just what they were complaining about before, but the sociology class will doubtless say that with their knowledge of budgeting the whole thing is much simpler than one might think.

Getting a Better Understanding

San Francisco Chronicle
Coinciding with the announcement that Prince Kan-in of Japan is coming to America with a warship to express the gratitude of his country for the assistance we gave it the time of the earthquake that almost destroyed Tokyo and Yokohama, we have the statement of Japanese agriculturists and other nationals living in California of their purpose to abide by the decision of the United States Supreme Court on the alien land law.

This is as it should be and is evidence that Japan and the Japanese are getting a clearer understanding of our attitude toward them. There is no occasion for ill will between the United States and Japan. We owe our citizens certain rights, certain privileges and certain protection that are exclusively theirs. In fulfilling that obligation to our own we are offering no affront to Japan or the Japanese people, and we believe they are beginning to see it that way.

That our spirit toward them is friendly was evidenced when they were in dire distress and we did not hesitate in proffering assistance. When Prince Kan-in comes here to express the gratitude of his country he will find evidence of that friendly spirit.

Display Flags in Schools

Long Beach Press
Mary Pickford, Norma Talmadge, and other famous stars of the screen, are giving emphatic warnings, in public addresses and in writings, to girls who have ambitions to shine in pictures, to keep away from Hollywood, unless they have exceptional talent and some reasonable hope of getting a start. Great numbers of poor girls, in different parts of the country, having visions of stardom and imagining that the path of the prospective star in Hollywood is strewn with thornless roses, use their meager savings to travel to Hollywood. There they soon are sadly disillusioned. They find no opening, and find it impossible to live without money. Many of these girls become the victims of persons of evil designs.

The warning should be heralded afar. Persons in no way connected with motion pictures will may join in warning girls who are related to them, or who are friends or acquaintances. There is much hardship, embarrassment, humiliation and danger to girls who flock to Hollywood with limited means and expect to land in pictures at once, with good pay.

There are few openings there, and they are for girls of exceptional talent or beauty, or both. There are so many of these from whom to choose that even many of the talented and the beautiful cannot get engagements in pictures.

Send the warning to young women and young men, too, to keep away from Hollywood, unless abundantly supplied with means, and not dependent upon the day's work for sustenance.

Urges Fair Be Supported

Riverside Press
The Press commends most heartily the movement in the Riverside Chamber of Commerce to make the development of the Southern California fair one of the major projects for the coming year. The chamber is fortunate in securing J. E. Wherrell as chairman of the fair committee and there is an earnestness and enthusiasm shown by President Criddle and other directors that is most hopeful.

The fair is a great community asset and it renders a highly valuable piece of service to agriculture in Southern California. It should be continued and made better and more important from year to year. The chamber of commerce can be an important factor in putting Riverside behind the project so unitedly and effectively that this hope will be realized.

The 1924 fair is specially important because it will come just before the session of the 1925 legislature. If the fair is a big success and if it has as never before the united support of Riverside city and county, then the hope of recognition as a state fair will be much better. Even if that consummation is delayed, a bigger and better fair will be a strong argument for more state aid.

The Press hopes that the chamber of commerce in 1924 will do a number of good pieces of work; but if it does nothing more than to put the Southern California fair well on its feet, it will have justified all the support given to it.

Editorial Shorts

San Bernardino papers are quite prompt to make comparisons between that city and Riverside; and the Press takes the liberty of suggesting that there is some food for thought in the fact that the postal receipts in this city for November were over $1,000 more than in San Bernardino. And this happened in spite of the fact that Arlington, formerly a station of the Riverside office, is now an independent post office, though in the city limits of Riverside—Riverside Press.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.
FOLLOWING IN BABY'S FOOTSTEPS
I was reading the directions of a medicine for children the other day. The mother was instructed to immediately stop all food, to give the child a dose of castor oil, the next day to give some nourishing liquid food, but not milk, and then administer this medicine.

Now I couldn't remember the name of the medicine, but I couldn't help but reflect upon the wisdom of the mother of the advertisement. You are feeling just a little out of sorts, you don't feel like eating anything. You are not sick, but just have a heavy "don't care" feeling.

Perhaps a slight headache. The thought of food doesn't really repel you, but when the meal hour comes, you just don't want any of it. What's the advice?

Just the same as for the baby. Abstain from all food for a day or even two days. You'll live that long.

In the meantime a healthy dose of castor oil to carry off accumulated wastes or irritating formations in the intestine. And finally come back to the regular articles of diet gradually.

While the milk diet is perhaps our most useful food, there are so many people who dislike it, or with whom it does not agree, that other light foods must be used.

It really doesn't matter very much just what you eat, but the quantity at each meal must be small. And finally the medicine to give. Well, this is where I'll have to break away from the advertisement and be different. I want to say:

Why not giving any medicine whatever. You have stopped piling in the offending material, you have rid yourself of its products, and you are gradually getting your strength of stomach, and strength of body back by eating lightly of proper foods. The job is finished.

Why pour in some medicine?

Community Chest
Grows In Cleveland

Howard D. Hadley, one of the owners of the Los Angeles Saturday Night, has written an interesting statement on the development of the Community Chest plan, from Cleveland, where he is spending a few months. He states that in Cleveland, which is the city where the chest idea was first developed and has been in operation for five years, the people are more strongly for it than ever before. Writing on the day of a Community Chest drive and after telling about an inspirational address by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, he makes the following comments, of particular interest in Riverside at this time, saying in part:

"They are endeavoring to raise $4,500,000. Without a shadow of doubt they will do it, and more! Why, they raised $851,451.92 the first day, yesterday! Today, they reported $857,027.99 more; a total of $1,708,479.21 for the first two days, or 41 per cent of the entire amount, and four more days to go! Everybody, one might say, lent a hand. Last year, Mr. E. M. Baker said, not less than 17,000 workers participated in the drive. And everybody gives! It may be but a dollar, or five or ten, or it may be $100,000. John L. Severence, steel, sulphur and Standard Oil magnate, who passes his winters in Pasadena, contributes annually, so I was told, the sum of $36,000. He is the active chairman of one of the 50 committees of the drive. Mr. Dauby, head of the May company's big department store here, which retails about $28,000,000 annually in this one store in Cleveland, is another chairman of a drive committee. W. G. Mather, head of a big steel company, is another. He is a brother of Samuel Mather, head of the national parks commission. They are both large givers and workers. On the other hand, 30 old ladies, living in the Old Ladies' Home, gave $43 from their own scant pocket money!

"Another feature which interested me, particularly, was the report of pledges made by Division B, the neighborhood group, with announced subscriptions totaling $22,650 and representing, in the truest sense, the sacrifice of the poor man. Rodney Morrison Jr., division chairman, stated this total income was 25 per cent more than last year. 'Never before have the people shown such a friendly spirit toward the fund,' he said. 'The intelligent questions which are asked show the people know about its mission and are willing to give it their support.'

"It is efficiently managed and the money is wisely expended. The total cost of administration, last year, was $130,000, and of this, fully $100,000 was met by the interest paid by the local banks on the 'Community Chest' money, so that the entire 'overhead' for administering the associated charities of Cleveland, a $4,500,000 job—was just exactly $30,000! Cleveland, by the way, like Los Angeles, claims to have reached, this fall, a population of one million. Eight thousand, six hundred and twenty-five persons who could not afford to pay themselves, were treated in the 10 city hospitals, out of the Community Chest fund. That's just one small item, of course."

Worth While Verse

A SONG

"And, oh, the voices I have heard!
And visions where the morning grows—
A brother's soul in some sweet bird,
A sister's spirit in a rose.

"And, oh, the beauty I have found!
Such beauty, beauty, everywhere;
The beauty creeping on the ground,
The beauty singing through the air.

"The love in all, the good, the worth,
The God in all, or dusk, or dawn,
Good will to man and peace on earth,
The morning stars sing on and on."

Little Benny's
Note Book

by Lee Pope

Pop was smoking to himself and I was doing my lessons and ma was reading the letter that came from Ant Fanny today, saying to pop, That baby of Fanny's is getting to be quite a noble character, according to Fanny.

Yes, and according to Mr. Gillette there's a certain brand of safety razor that got all the others backed off the map, to use the slang expression for face, pop sed.

Now, Willyum, you're prejudiced, ma sed and pop sed, I admit it, I don't see how my baby named Herbert can have any reel nobility of character.

Well then jest listen to wat Fanny riles, ma sed. She riles, You have no idee wat a wonderful nature little Herbert is developing for himself. He is the sole of generosity and whenever he has a stick of candy he always brakes it in 2 peeces and offers me the biggest pecee. Yestidday jest for fun I pretended I was going to accept it wen he offered it to me and you never herd sutch a screeming and carrying on in all your life, and I thawt it did him grate credit because it shows he knows even at his age wen someone is trying to take 'dantage of him.

Haw, haw, ixouse me wile I laff, pop sed.
Well listen to wat she riles, ma sed. She riles, But one of his best indications of character is his kindness to dum animals. If he happens to be pulling the dogs tale, for instants, he always stops immediately if the dog turns eround and looks at him in a certain way which he feels, which proves that he rec' wouldnt hurt the dog for the world and he must have a very sympathetic streak in him. And then any last nite he offered up his bowl of milk and picked it to a perfectly strange cat. Of course the cat was outside of the fence and out of reetch, but the principle is the same.

Help, aid, sucker, pop sed. And he got behind the sporting page and stayed there, so ma had to read the rest of the letter to herself.

New Guinea

"New Guinea, in the interior of which a new tribe of head hunters is reported to have been found, furnishes to the world some of the tidbits which tempt exotic epicures to wild extravagances," says a bulletin issued from the Washington, District of Columbia, headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Along the southern coast of this second largest island in the world are found these gigantic sea worms, called slugs, which the Chinese place second only to the bird's nest as table delicacies. A nice fat one will measure almost two feet long and as big around as a man's wrist. The fishermen collect them off the coral reefs when the tide is low, and they are boiled, cleaned and placed in the sun to dry. When shipped to China they have much the general appearance of frankfurters, as they have shrunk in the process of curing.

Tidbits For China

"The fins of the hundreds of sharks caught in New Guinea waters are also dried in the sun and shipped away to tempt the palates of the Chinese elite. The native saves for himself, however, a choice delicacy—a nice, fat, juicy grubworm, about the size of a man's thumb, which he finds in decaying timber. But then he eats rats, lizards, frogs, snakes, and crocodile eggs along with other meat and vegetables.

"When the Pacific territorial transfers began during the World war, German New Guinea was added to the British possessions in the island and placed under Australian control; the western half has for years belong to The Netherlands. Though the island cannot properly be considered as part of the Malay Archipelago, its population being Polynesian and Negro, it is often so classed because part of it is politically a portion of the Dutch East Indies.

"Great tracts of more than three hundred thousand square miles of this enormous island have not been explored and practically nothing is known about the great range of mountains in its interior, many of the peaks of which are more than 12 thousand feet in height. Five or six of them dwarf every mountain peak in the United States in comparison. Were the island itself set down on continental United States it would cover a strip of land from the eastern tip of Massachusetts to Nebraska and as far southward as the city of Washington.

"Cannibals Still Exist
"The native Papuans, or 'woolly heads,' who dwell about the coast, are of a lower order of civilization than the Malays, and the dwarfs of the interior are still lower than the Papuans, cannibalism existing among the wilder tribes. They are spirit worshippers, though they are too deficient in mental development to have made their system of religion at all complex, but they are hemmed about by thousands of superstitions.

"Neither the men nor the women of the island bother much about tailoring and dressmaking bills. The one dress of a New Guinea woman lasts for a lifetime—for it usually consists only of the tattooing made upon her skin or of a series of small scars made in a pattern across her chest and shoulders. But the 'curse of rags,' which has spread through the South Sea Islands with the coming of the white man, is taking hold in New Guinea too, and the native is now trading birds of paradise for tawdry pieces of cotton print. He will trade anything he possesses for a white man's garment, and any battered old hat has become the sine qua non of a New Guinea ceremonial.

"Evidently their most primitive state the various tribes of natives of the islands love personal adornment. Some of the islanders pierce the septum of their noses with a sharp heated bone, and through the hole trust flowers, feathers, or one of the bones of an enemy. The dwarfs of the interior, who, when full grown, average four feet nine inches, thrust a bear's tusk through the hole pierced in their noses giving them a sinister expression.

"Further Aids to Beauty
"Often to enhance the beauty of these 'glad rags' they paint their faces red with clay, black with charcoal, or white with powdered sage.

"Though both England and the United States have strict laws against the importation of the feathers of the beautiful paradise birds, Chinese and Arab traders are still tempting natives to make use of their excellent bows and long unfeathered arrows.

"The island enjoys one distinction not many other large areas of the earth can boast—a great shortage of women, hence polygamy does not exist on the island. Even so, the poor widows are made to suffer such indignities because of the death of their lords that few of them are able to attract another husband. The widow's 'weeds' of some of the tribes are funny little poke bonnets made of bark, and among other tribes the benighted must wear suspended around their necks by a fiber rope a cocoanut shell filled with rancid lard, which is sufficient to keep all aspirants at a distance.

"The principal commodity which New Guinea produces is the coconut, and more than a million and a half dollars worth of copra is shipped to the United States each year. To Germans is due the credit for having discovered the many uses of this valuable product and for developing the industry to some extent before 1914. But the real merchant prince who made the wheels of the industry go around was a woman.

"Half Scotch, half Samoan, this remarkable person, whom the natives nicknamed 'Queen Emma,' opened up thousands of acres of coconut trees and employed thousands of natives. Recently one of the plantations, which she bought for a box of tobacco, sold for almost 350 thousand dollars."

NO. 19—A TIRED PERSON'S RIDDLE

"Sleepy-Head ought to guess to-day's riddle!" said the Riddle Lady with a smile, "or any of the tired people."

Nick and Nancy laughed. "It must be a very easy riddle if sleepy people can guess it," said Nancy. "Mostly you have to be wide awake, don't you?"

"Yes, indeed you do!" said the Riddle Lady. "The only reason I don't say that is because the riddle is easy, but because it's about a sleepy subject. Listen! This is the riddle:

"Four legs and one foot.
Always stay where I'm put.
Don't like butter but like a spread;
Hate water of all things,
But I am jumping-frog of springs;
Alarm-clocks really make me sick.
But I dearly love a tick;
Have no time for oils or plasters,
Yet I roll around on casters;
Not young, I'm old and staid,
But each day I am newly made;
Never sleep, night or day,
Yet a bed-room's where I stay;
Never ill! It's been my pride!
Yet oft the doctor's at my side;
Never flew in any weather,
For all I bear full many a feather;
Never suffer from the cold,
But put on woollens when I'm told;
If night-mares come, it's been my boast,
I tie them to my hitching post;

If I receive a gift of lace,
I put it in my pillow-case;
I'm soft as down, yet hard as lead,
I am just anybody's—"

"Bed!" shouted everybody in Riddle Town so loudly that the question mark chimneys nearly tumbled off the houses.

The Riddle Lady put her hands over her ears, but quickly took them away again, for she had seen something.

Sleepy-Head and Little-Boy-Blue and Hi-Diddle-Dee-Dee-John were sound asleep. Yes, sir! And snoring! There they were, all three of them, curled up on the grass in spite of the fact that "Keep Off" signs were posted everywhere.

At that minute Little-Boy-Blue's mother came hurrying along. "Where's Johnny Blue?" she asked. "He didn't come home from the pasture-lot and he's been worrying."

And then Sleepy-Head's mother came and Mrs. Dumping came and they all carried their children home.

"Who gets the prize?" asked Nancy after they had gone. "Everybody!" answered the Riddle Lady. "Because everybody but the sleepy heads guessed. A good-night's sleep. That's the prize. The best in the world!"
